Liftoff Scheduled Monday

Apollo Countdown Started

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — On the second anniversary of man's first landing on the moon, the countdown begins today for a fourth American expedition to the lunar surface.

The Apollo 15 launch team started the countdown clock at 6:30 a.m. EDT, aiming for a liftoff of its Saturn 5 rocket next Monday at 9:34 a.m.

Two years ago, on July 20, 1969, Apollo 11 astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. took the historic first steps on the moon.

The Apollo 12 and 14 crews since have left their footprints in the dusty lunar soil. An oxygen tank exploded on the Apollo 13 astronauts' spaceship and they were forced to return to earth without attempting a moon landing.

Astronauts David R. Scott and James B. Irwin hope to become the seventh and eighth humans to visit that barren but scientifically fertile land. While they are on the surface a record 67 hours, exploring with a wheeled moon buggy, Alfred M. Worden will conduct a series of scientific and photographic experiments in lunar orbit.

The three spacemen planned to spend most of today rehearsing in lunar and command module simulators here. They were in the trainers Monday, and Scott and Irwin later drove a model of their moon cart over a mock moonscape, practicing the second and third of the three excursions they plan on the surface.

Other Apollo 15 story and photo on page 4.

Scott and Irwin are to land July 30 at the base of the Apennine Mountains, whose 15,000-foot peaks are the tallest on the moon.

They are to drive 22 miles, searching for original lunar crust at the mountain front, exploring a mile-wide canyon called Hadley Rille and inspecting craters that might provide the first evidence of volcanic activity on the moon.

The launch team Monday successfully checked a new inverter placed in the Apollo 15 command ship because of a brief power dropout during a countdown test last week.

NASA also announced that one change is being made on Apollo 15 as a result of the deaths of three Soviet cosmonauts as their Soyuz 11 craft reentered earth's atmosphere June 30. The tragedy was blamed on sudden depressurization of the cabin.

All three Apollo 15 astronauts will wear pressure suits instead of flight coveralls when the lunar module is jettisoned in lunar orbit after the moon exploration. NASA said this was being done because of what it termed the remote possibility of a pressure failure when the lunar ship is kicked away by explosive devices.

The suits would protect them in case of a pressure leak. They are worn on all critical phases of the mission such as separation and docking of the two vehicles and landing and liftoff from the moon.

Russian cosmonauts do not carry space pressure suits. Their spacecraft pressure system of nitrogen and oxygen under 14.7 pounds per square inch is such that depressurization is instant with no chance to don suits in case of failure that would be caused by a leak.

The Apollo system of pure oxygen under 5 pounds per square inch pressure would depressurize less rapidly and it has a surge tank that would create a fast flow of oxygen which would give the astronauts up to 29 minutes to don the protective suits.

NASA said the Apollo 15 astronauts will not wear suits during re-entry to earth because they would have time to don them if there were a pressure failure.

It said there was greater risk of a structure failure on landing in the Pacific than there is during re-entry. The stress factor on re-entry is predictable, a statement said. But stress loads vary on hitting the water because of such factors as wind and wave velocity.

In such a landing emergency, the astronauts would be severely handicapped by their bulky space suits if they had to escape into water.

Settlements in Phone Strike, Mail Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Union and management negotiators have reached tentative agreements on contracts covering 1.25 million communications and postal workers but a rail union has threatened to expand its strike against two carriers to nine other lines.

Leaders of the Communications Workers of America (CWA) Monday ordered 500,000 telephone employes to end their week-old strike against the Bell System at midnight tonight.

CWA President Joseph A. Beirne said the union had agreed to a settlement that would bring an increase of wages and benefits of 33.5 per cent over three years.

Apparently, however, not all union locals would obey the order to return to work. The union's New York State bargaining team rejected the pact, a spokesman saying presidents of 23 state locals voted unanimously against the agreement.

In another labor development, the U.S. Postal Service and a coalition of seven unions representing 750,000 employes announced they had agreed tentatively on contract terms. No details were revealed pending a vote by the full union negotiating committee.

Negotiators for the railroad industry and the United Transportation Union (UTU) scheduled under bargaining session in Washington late today in an effort to resolve their complicated dispute over work rules changes.

Last week the union struck the Union Pacific and the Southern Railway.

Rail talks Monday failed to make headway, and UTU President Charles Luna pledged that if there is no progress the UTU will strike three more lines Friday and six additional lines July 30. About 9,000 UTU members have struck the Union Pacific and Southern.

In still another major labor dispute, the 500-member Nonferrous Conference has scheduled a meeting in Salt Lake City Saturday to consider ratification of a contract agreement between striking unions and Magma Copper Co. United Steelworkers spokesmen said they hoped the Magma agreement would serve as a pattern setter for possible future settlements in the 20-day-old national copper strike which has idled 39,000 workers.

Beirne said the communications workers would strike again Aug. 19 if workers rejected the proposed telephone settlement. The rank and file will be polled by mail ballot.

The CWA president said the settlement would cost the Bell System about $4 billion over three years. He urged approval of the pact, saying it "does not provide everything we sought (but) it is the biggest package ever gotten from the Bell System."

The transportation union has threatened to extend its strike Friday to the Chicago and North Western, the Southern Pacific and the Norfolk & Western. The union announced Monday it planned to strike July 30 against the Alton & Southern; the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe; the Houston, Belt and Terminal railroad; the Duluth, Missabe and Iron Range; the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern; and the Bessemer and Lake Erie.

CALL TO RETURN—Joseph Bierne, president of the Communications Workers of America, announced tentative agreement on a new contract with the Bell Telephone System and ordered half-a-million striking telephone repairmen, installers and operators to return to work. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Orange County Seeks Ban On Land-Taking by MTA

GOSHEN

The Orange County Legislature has joined the legal battle to prevent the Metropolitan Transportation Authority from acquiring some 9,000 acres of land for the expansion of Stewart Airport.

Meeting in special session in Goshen Monday night, the legislature voted unanimously to seek a court injunction barring the state from purchasing additional land near the former Air Force base.

The vote was 15-0. Six legislators were reported absent from the special session.

Orange County has now joined the Hudson River Valley Council, six Orange County towns and one village in calling on the State Supreme Court to halt further plans for expansion at Stewart.

In instituting its own court action against the MTA, the legislature refrained from joining the law suit already in federal court. The legislators apparently felt they could best represent the interests of Orange County residents by remaining separate from the other interest groups opposing the Stewart expansion.

Additionally, a report of the Stewart Airport Committee of the legislature stated, "the county cannot be the satellite of any hastily organized association of disparate interests or a party to actions which it cannot lead or control."

The legislature has not specifically gone on record as being opposed to the eventual expansion of the airport. But the legislators are asking that further plans be stopped until the MTA prepares a detailed master plan on the actions it intends to take.

The State Legislature has approved $30 million in funds for the acquisition of land adjacent to the airport. The county is seeking an injunction to prevent the MTA and the Department of Transportation from buying any land in the Towns of New Windsor, Montgomery and Newburgh and the Village of Maybrook.

The MTA has not yet purchased any land near Stewart. In addition, it has agreed to delay any land taking action until a federal judge rules on a request for a preliminary restraining order. A hearing on that matter, scheduled for today in U.S. District Court in New York City, has been adjourned until Friday morning, at the request of the MTA.

Monday's action by the Orange County Legislature followed the recommendations of the Stewart Airport Committee. In a report presented to the entire legislature minutes before the special session was convened, the committee criticized both the State Legislature and Governor Rockefeller for acting too hastiy in the jetport matter.

The committee also scored the MTA for planning to take private lands without first presenting a detailed report on how those lands would be used.

The committee report also took exception with reports that Stewart might some day be developed into a fourth major passenger airport for the New York Metropolitan area. The report stated that the Stewart facility could not handle the needs of a medium size airport.

Ulster Complex Leveled by Fire, Was Set for Future Occupancy

LAKE KATRINE

Flames raced through a new two-story frame and brick veneer apartment building on Neighborhood Road in the Town of Ulster early today and threatened to spread to an adjoining structure before firefighters from the Ulster Hose company units brought the blaze under control.

Fire Chief William Williams who was in command of the firemen at the scene said the origin of the blaze was not determined and an investigation is underway by fire officials and police.

There was no estimate of the loss.

The building was the first of several that are being built at the Lake Katrine site by Interstate Corporation of White Plains, according to the town building inspector's office.

It was 2:47 a.m. when the first alarm was sounded, minutes after the fire was discovered. All units in the Ulster Hose district responded with six pieces of apparatus and 65 men, Williams said.

When firefighters arrived at the scene they found flames raging through the eight-apartment complex. Several lines of hose were quickly pressed into service as firemen fought the roaring flames that burned rapidly through the two-story structure.

The eight-apartment complex was completely destroyed.

Through the combined efforts of Ulster Hose Company firefighters and several men from the Mt. Marion-Ruby Company the fire was prevented from spreading to another eight apartment building attached to the structure involved in the early morning blaze.

Water was pumped on the roof of the second building to prevent a spread of the flames and sparks.

A fire wall that separated the buildings aided in blocking the fire.

An official said the apartment building burned to the ground, with some framework still standing.

Chief Williams said that the fire burned out of control for some time before the blaze was checked. The chief said the structure involved in the fire was near completion and was scheduled for occupancy in the near future.

The building was one of several planned for construction at the facility, officials noted.

During the height of the blaze, Mt. Marion-Ruby firemen with apparatus stood by at the Glenerie fire station. Several members of that unit went to the scene to assist Williams' men.

No Evidence . . . Health Officials

Close Watch Here on Horse Disease

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

The Ulster County Health Department is "staying on top of" the encephalomeylitis virus situation that is causing great concern in the southwestern part of the United States where thousands of horses have been killed by an epidemic of sleeping sickness.

Dr. William Taylor, health commissioner, said today that "there is no evidence of the disease here at the moment, but the situation bears watching." He said he has had several inquiries from area residents concerning encephalitis and from several who were planning to go to Texas and wanted vaccine. Dr. Taylor said that although work is progressing on a human vaccine, none is available at present.

The Ulster County Legislature, warned by the State Health Department in early 1970 that "it is essential" that information be obtained on the mosquito population with regard to eastern encephalitis voted to hire Frank Miller as a mosquito control foreman.

Miller maintains and operates mosquito traps and the state identifies the collections.

Special

Clement Angstrom of the New York State Regional Veterinary Laboratory in Kingston has also contributed to the program by drawing blood samples from birds and rodents.

Harry Edinger, Health Department Environmental Sanitary Engineer, said the Ulster County program is a modest one. He explained that due to state cutbacks in funds this year, the control program is, of necessity, going to have to be deleted. Even if it had progressed it would not have been completely in effect until 1972-73.

Dr. Thomas F. Bast, associate medical entomologist with the State Department of Health has reported that mosquito borne viruses have been experienced in Rockland, Orange, Albany and Columbia counties. Eastern equine encephalitis was also found in Onondaga County in 1969. In 1970, he warned, "This is no longer a particular problem limited to our neighboring states."

Swarms of mosquitoes and biting flies are now carrying an epidemic of horse-killing sleeping sickness in the southwest, northward through Texas and Oklahoma.

The disease which has raced through Mexico and into Texas, killing at least 6,000 horses and hospitalizing more than 1,000 persons, marched on despite massive innoculations and insecticide spraying.

A federal quarantine of an estimated 400,000 horses in Texas remained in effect and state police helped enforce a state restriction barring movement of horses between counties.

$748 Thousand Project Listed for Routes 209, 213

ALBANY

The State Department of Transportation will spend $748,991 to recondition sections of Routes 213 and 209, it was announced today.

Route 209 will be reconditioned from Route 44 to the Ellenville north village line while Route 213 will be reconditioned from Route 209 to Lucas Turnpike.

Work includes resurfacing with asphalt, strengthening of shoulders, improvement of drainage and installation of new guard rails. The project is part of the Department of Transportation's new highway reconditioning and preservation program, which the department says, is designed to protect older roads and avoid more costly reconstruction later.

The state also announced today that a federally-required study on the effects on the environment of the proposed new Route 209 from Port Jervis to Kingston indicates that the new road would have little effect on nature, and might even improve the environment. This particular report, issued today, dealt specifically with the area between Hurley and Spring Glen.

The state report suggests that the new Route 209 might cause less noise and pollution than the road does now because the new highway would be further from populated areas and would allow for higher speeds.

The report also notes that relocation of persons along the right of way of the new road cause minimal problems, since construction is expected to take several years. Reportedly, there are some 100 homes and 45 businesses on the right of way of the new road.

Stone Houses and other historical sights would also be preserved under the new plan including the maintaining of canal locks in Ellenville, Accord and Spring Glen.

Paul Sturges of High Falls, former president of the Delaware and Hudson Historic Canal Society, was a key figure in the saving of the creek locks.

A public hearing on the new Route 209 was held last year and another one is expected later this year.

The contractor on the reconstruction of the old Route 209 and for Route 213 is County Asphalt Inc. of Tarrytown. The work involves some 5.4 miles on Route 209 and 1.2 miles on Route 213.

Woodstock Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, left, recently witnessed Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller's signing of Bell's legislation creating physicians' assistants in the state. The bill was carried in the Assembly by Bell as a part of the Governor's Legislative Program, and Governor Rockefeller has said it is one of the most important bills to come out of the 1971 session. The measure is designed to alleviate the critical shorage of physicians in the state. The Governor invited Assemblyman Bell to his New York City office to witness the signing.

Residents Ask Lefkowitz For Ruling on Zoning Law

KINGSTON

A group of New Street residents have petitioned Attorney General Louis J Lefkowitz for help, claiming that the city of Kingston has refused to enforce the zoning law in their area.

The petition to Lefkowitz was dated July 12 and signed by C. Philip Hendricks Jr. and his mother, Dorothy W. Hendricks, residing at 51 New Street.

The Hendricks contend that the entire area is zoned residential but that Anthony J. Constanzi, who previously operated a construction business at the end of New Street, is in violation of the zoning law by renting his premises to two firms, Staccio Construction Inc. and Stalag Blacktop Inc.

The Hendricks claim that trucks and other construction equipment are parked on the street at all hours of the night and day including Sundays and holidays. They claim that they have petitioned city officials including Building Inspector George E. Radcliffe, for help in forcing the construction firms out of the area but they have received no cooperation.

At one point, in the petition to Lefkowitz the Hendricks make reference to a "closed door" hearing held on March 16, 1971 where residents of New Street were not allowed. Participants at that meeting, according to the Hendricks, included City Judge Hubert A. Richter, Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein, the Constanzis, Anthony and Clara, his wife; Radcliffe, and attorneys Joseph J. Qualtiere, for the Constanzis and Edward T. Feeney, described by the Hendricks as a "friend of the residents of New Street."

Radcliffe, questioned by The Freeman, acknowledged that meeting. He described it as "a private hearing." "It is our usual procedure on complaints to hold private hearings to discuss the matter," Radcliffe said. "Very often we arrive at agreements to correct the problem without having to take court action."

Radcliffe said that the Constanzis agreed, at that March 16 meeting, to remove the equipment and clean up the area and discontinue working on Sundays and holidays.

Radcliffe said that under the November, 1963 zoning law, a "nonconforming use" (under which Constanzi apparently qualified) is allowed for a period of either 30 years after the use began or 10 years after the zoning law was put into effect.

"I think these nonconforming uses will just die out by themselves," Radcliffe ventured.

The Laws and Rules Committee of the Common Council is currently working on revision of the entire 1963 zoning code.

Saugerties Seeks Deeds

SAUGERTIES

The Village of Saugerties will ask Ulster County to deed to it three properties in the village which it would like for demolition purposes.

The parcels include the Bennett property on Dock Street, Jaeger property on Partition Street and the Gardiner Estate on West Bridge Street.

The county has title to the three parcels due to nonpayment of taxes.

The village board, meeting Monday night directed Village Clerk James Gage to contact the Village Attorney Daniel Lamb who in turn will meet with County Attorney Abram Molyneaux to discuss the proposal.

Gage was also requested to urge Lamb to speed up condemnation proceedings with regard to the Tracy property on Jane Street in order that it may be either demolished or repaired.

The board also considered the matter of an alcoholic beverage ordinance for the village which would include a section prohibiting the littering of alcoholic containers.

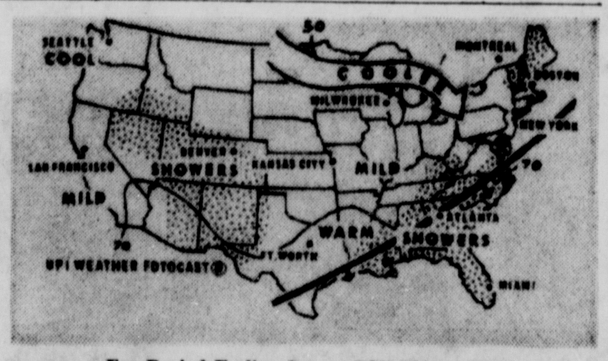

The board has been studying similar laws enacted in the Town of Woodstock and other municipalities with the idea of passing similar legislation in Saugerties.

A faulty burglar alarm system at Berzal's Oldsmobile, Ulster Avenue, the subject of numerous complaints concerning its sounding off at all hours, has been repaired, according to a report of Police Commissioner Walter Keefe.

Keefe also demonstrated the village's new portable radar unit which arrived recently and is currently in use by his department.

Routine department reports were given and Robert E. Anderson was accepted as a new member of the Washington Hook and Ladder Company.

Torn Trash Checks Being Put Together

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Two dozen young bank employes have been holed up in a well guarded room for a week, painstakingly piecing together some $800,000 worth of checks that were inadvertently shredded for trash.

Some of the checks have been photographed and all of them have been recoded, a bank spokesman said Monday. This has aided in the reconstruction of nearly $300,000 worth of checks.

Earlier this month a janitor at the home office of the First Security Bank picked up what he thought was a bundle of trash and routinely ran it through the wastepaper shredder.

The "trash" actually was $847,000 worth of clearing checks. Each check was neatly cut into approximately 10 lengthwise strips that were then well blended.

The end product: one super challenging jigsaw puzzle.

Bank officials obtained the stark, unairconditioned room above a local mortgage and loan firm and went to work.

Cashier George Bossert said he expects the work to be completed by about mid-August.

The bank emphasizes that no matter what portion of the mutilated checks remain lost, there will be no loss to First Security.

A bonding company, which the bank refuses to identify, will assume the loss resulting from the checks that cannot be recovered. A bank source said some checks probably would end up in that category.

Apollo 15: The Greatest Exploration to Date

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Apollo 15's astronauts will set out next week on the longest, most ambitious, best equipped and potentially most rewarding moon expedition yet undertaken.

The 12-day seven-hour flight of Col. David R. Scott, 39, Maj. Alfred M. Worden, 39, and Lt. Col. James B. Irwin, 41, also will be the most expensive manned space mission in U.S. history. It is costing $445 million.

Launch is scheduled for 9:34 a.m. (EDT) Monday July 26.

Four days later, Scott and Irwin are to swoop within 4,000 feet of some of the tallest mountains on the moon and set down within hiking distance of a winding canyon 1,000 feet deep.

Worden will remain in orbit, turning the command ship Endeavour into a science observatory to map an eighth of the lunar surface during a record six-day in orbit around the moon.

The two surface explorers will be on the moon 67 hours — twice the time logged by previous crews —and conduct a record three excursions totaling 20 hours. They'll use a new electric car to cover 22 miles and will have the first chance to collect rocks from lunar mountains.

Apollo 15's launch is scheduled to come just two years and six days after man first set foot on the moon. There have been two successful lunar landings since then, but to scientists trying to piece together the big picture, Apollo 15 should tell more about the moon than the first three landings combined.

"We'll bring back enough data to keep the scientific community busy for 30 years," promised Scott, a two-time spaceflight veteran making his first flight beyond earth orbit. "The vastly improved scientific returns will be almost overwhelming."

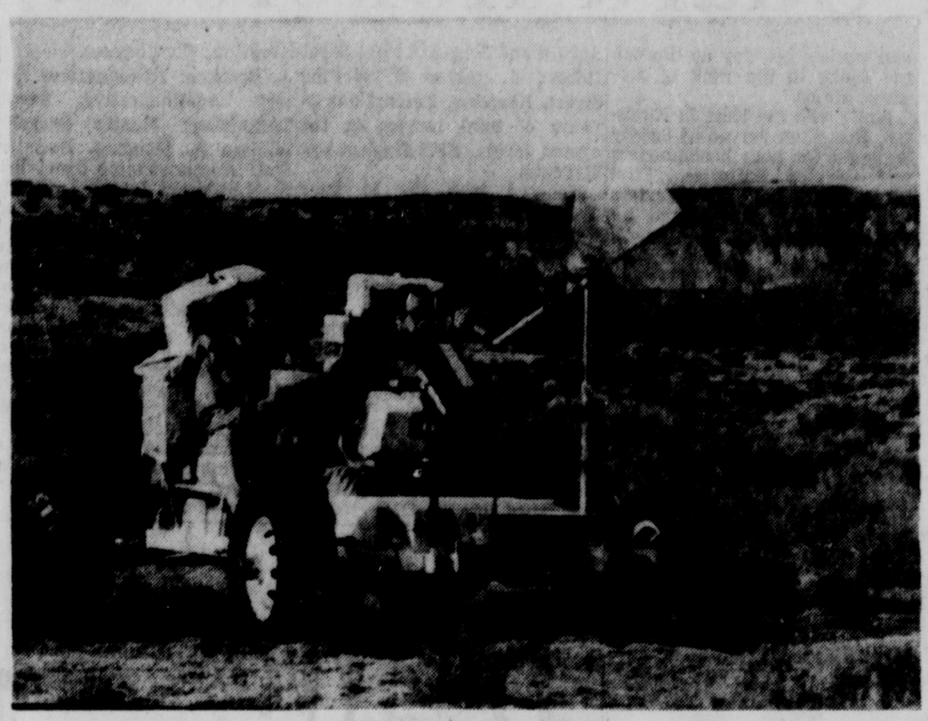

Scott's enthusiasm for the mission is unmistakable. He has said repeatedly Apollo 15 will be the "greatest scientific exploration ever carried out by man" and the "most significant scientific expedition ever conducted."

Apollo 15's capabilities are so much greater than previous Apollos that the mission is considered the start of a new moon program by many in the Space Agency. It represents the beginning of the scientific payoff from an immensely expensive and difficult technological project.

Apollo 15, and the last two Apollos to follow next year, differ in many respects from the spacecraft of Apollos 11, 12, 13 and 14. The lunar module Falcon is 2,470 pounds heavier, with the new moon buggy stowed in a special compartment. There will be extra provisions to sustain the astronauts on the moon for three days.

The command ship is 2,640 pounds heavier with its new orbital observatory and more supplies to keep men in space for as long as 16 days. The complete, three-module spaceship will weigh a record 107,243 pounds in earth orbit.

Not only will Apollo 15 be a boon to scientists, it should be a bonanza to home television viewers. For the first time, the astronauts will take a color television camera with them on the moon buggy to show the world 230,000 miles away some of the most spectacular scenery man is ever likely to see.

MOON BUGGY PRACTICE

Apollo 15's landing site is in a basin surrounded on three sides by the towering Apennine Mountains. They rise higher from the valley floor than the great Himalayan front towers over the plains of India. And on the west flank is the half-mile wide, river-like gorge called Hadley Rille.

"I guarantee you that it will be the most spectacular photography you ever saw," Scott said in an interview. "You look straight out and see 11,000 feet up, and you look in another direction and see 15,000 feet up and you look in another direction and see a canyon 1,000 feet deep. Spectacular!"

The landing site is named Hadley-Apennine after its two most prominent features. It is 465 miles north of the lunar equator and lies on a lava-filled bay, called the Marsh of Decay, on the eastern edge of the large circular Sea of Rains.

The area presents the astronauts with what Dr. Robin P. Brett, chief geochemist at the Houston Space Center, calls a "five in one special."

In that one area, Scott and Irwin will use their new $8 million moon roadster to explore five separate features:

1. The base of the Apennine Mountains to search for chunks of the moon's ancient crust and material excavated from deep beneath the surface by the explosive impact of the huge meteorite that gouged out the Sea of Rains to the west.

2. The winding canyon to see if it was once a channel for lava pouring from a surface fissure, or was formed by some other process, and to look for possible layers of lava on the opposite canyon wall to find out something about the thickness of the lunar Seas of Rock.

3. The Marsh Of Decay to collect another sample of the volcanic rocks known as basalts that filled the moon's basins 3 to 4 billion years ago.

4. A hilly area called the North Complex to see if its hills are actually ancient volcanoes as some geologists think or whether the hills are islands of older material left when lava covered the surrounding terrain.

5. A cluster of crater which appear to have been formed by the impact of rock splattered about when meteorites formed the craters Autolycus and Aristillus to the northwest in the Sea Of Rains.

"So here, we've got nearly all the rocks and problems we've seen in the previous Apollo missions," said Dr. William C. Phinney, chief geologist at the Manned Spacecraft Center. "Perhaps we may have as much as 1½ billion years of the early history of the moon in this one site."

The astronauts will leave behind a nuclear-powered science station that will listen for moonquakes, measure magnetic forces around the landing site, study gases from the sun, examine the extremely sparse gases around the moon and measure the amount of heat coming from the lunar interior.

The scientific fruit of Apollo 15 also will come from the orbiting command ship piloted by Worden. For the first time, it is equipped with a 975-pound, $17 million array of high powered cameras and sophisticated sensors to study the moon on a global scale.

Unlike the near equatorial orbits of previous Apollos, the path to be followed by Apollo 15, angled 26 degrees to the lunar equator, will take it over terrain never before seen closeup by man.

Worden will use a 24-inch telescopic camera equipped with 1,800 feet of film to photograph moon features as small as a picnic table from an altitude of 69 miles. Working with it will be a smaller camera to photograph larger areas of the surface and star fields above for reference purposes, and a laser altimeter to record the ship's precise altitude with every picture.

The command ship's new science assembly also will use a set of spectrometers to determine the gross composition of broad stretches of both sides of the moon. Another spectometer will examine what little lunar atmosphere there is and look for gases that might be escaping from surface fissures.

Just before leaving lunar orbit Aug. 4, the astronauts will leave behind a small satellite that will circle the moon for a year, reporting on magnetic fields, radiation and the strange concentrations of gravity found in some of the lunar seas.

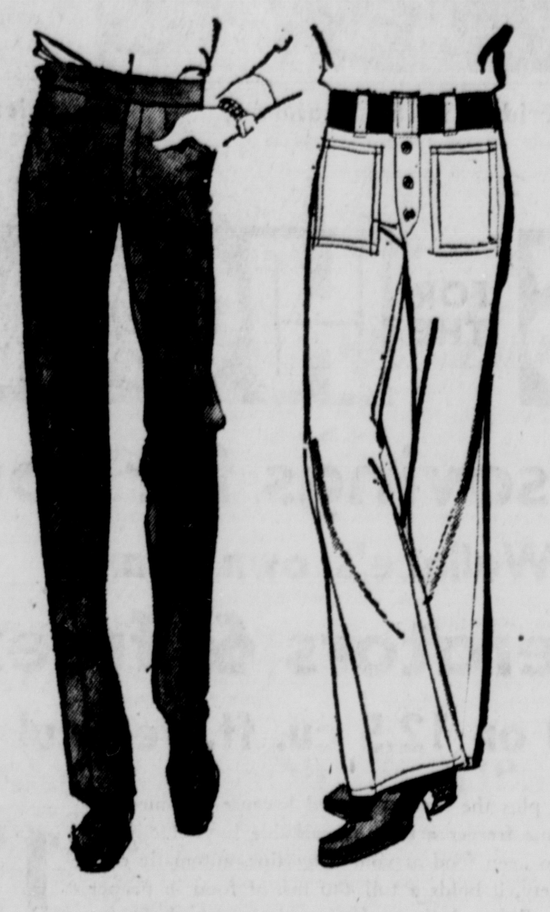

On the way home, with the spaceship 48,418 miles from the moon, Worden will open the command module's hatch and make his way back to the camera compartment in the service module to retrieve the film cassettes from the mapping cameras. This spacewalk should take about half an hour and will be televised live to earth.

Apollo 15 is scheduled to splash down in the Pacific Ocean 328 miles north of the Hawaiian Island of Oahu at 4:46 p.m., Aug. 7. The spacemen and their hoard of moon samples and data should return to the Houston Space Center Aug. 9.

For the first time, the astronauts will not have to worry about three weeks of quarantine. Such isolation has been deemed no longer needed because scientists are convinced the moon doesn't harbor germs that might endanger earthlings.

Poor Weather Delays Plans Of Air Search for Missing Boy

NEWCOMB, N. Y. (UPI) — Poor weather early today delayed Air Force plans to use a spy plane in the search for 8-year-old Douglas Legg, lost 11 days in dense Adirondack woodlands.

The Phantom F4 jet with reconnaissance air photography equipment had planned an early morning sweep over the 13,000 acre family estate where the boy disappeared. Officials at Griffiss Air Force Base in Rome, N.Y., said rain and fog would force postponement of the picture taking until just before dark.

State police said they would pull some 200 searchers out of the woods early if the weather improved so the plane could photograph "hot spots" that might indicate the youth's whereabouts.

The plane is equipped with a camera more sensitive than the infrared camera equipment that failed to turn up any trace of the boy earlier.

The rain failed to halt the ground search for the boy although the fog Monday limited the use of two helicopters that ferry troopers, state rangers and volunteers to the more remote areas.

Search organizers said they no longer sought contributions of food and drink as cases of soft - drinks and hundreds of sandwiches piled up in the Newcomb Town Hall search headquarters. They did call for more experienced Adirondack hikers.

The Legg family remained secluded on the family estate some six miles in the woods and near the spot where Douglas was last seen July 10.

A friend of the family who asked not to be identified said relatives thought the boy may have walked into the woods on purpose.

"He's at the age where he's getting independent and wants to do things on his own," the friend said. "They've had to say 'no, you can't do that' to him several times up here this year.

"They think he may have taken some food and gone just to show them he could do it," he said. "He's climbed several of the peaks with his family and this time he may have tried it alone."

The search was concentrated about five miles away from where Douglas disappeared, but the route State police say he may have followed would have taken Douglas about 15 miles.

Bloodhounds have picked up and lost several times a scent that may have been the boy's and twice have found sneaker prints they said may be his.

The searchers are concentrating in the Baldwin Mountain and Moose Mountain area. Both peaks are about 2,900 feet high.

The searchers are in teams of four to 10. They cut through the dense woodland, staying within sight of each other and laying a line of string behind them so others can tell which area has been checked.

"We're moving out further and further each day," State Police Capt. John H. Parmeter said. "We have a small crew going back into previously searched areas to see if there is any sign — to see if the string has been broken."

Divers also have checked Newcomb Lake on the estate. There are also a number of swamps but searchers have found no tracks in those areas.

Douglas is the son of William Legg, an elementary school principal from the Syracuse suburb of Baldwinsville.

The boy, wearing shorts and a T-shirt, disappeared July 10 while hiking on a 13,000 acre estate owned by his great-uncle, Syracuse banker Crandall Melvin Sr.

Douglas' uncle, Crandall Melvin Jr., had told the boy to go back to the cabin and put on long pants because of poison ivy.

REHABILITATION AID—A "climbing gym" was recently presented by the Union Center Civic Group to the Children's Rehabilitation Center on Webster Street. The equipment was purchased from the proceeds of the annual Hilda Hopkins Memorial Project. 'If He's Alive, We'll Find Him'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Earl Lalone is the second-in-command of the 28-members of the Sierra Madre (California) Search and Rescue Association flown from California to help in the search for Douglas Legg. He is one of six founders of the club and has participated in more than 1,500 search and rescue missions. Here are his impressions of the search as told to UPI newsman Clay F. Richards.)

By EARL LALONE

NEWCOMB, N.Y. (UPI) — If it's getting pretty rough now with the weather conditions. The rain and the fog make it rough on us — and they don't help him any either.

But it's quite possible he's alive. We've gone as high as 29 or 30 days and found youngsters like this and in colder weather.

There are wild berries he can eat — and a lot of water. If you've got water you can last a long time.

Exposure is his biggest problem. The nights are pretty chilly up there and the bugs are real bad.

From experience I'd say he's down by now — he's not moving around.

It's very dense and quite thick up there. The terrain is not rough, it's just very dense and tight. There's a lot of downfall (fallen trees) that makes the going rather slow. It's almost hand-to-hand type searching.

We break up into four-man crews and we stay in sight of each other all the time.

We cover a very small area every day — maybe an eighth of a mile for each team. In this terrain we have to be within talking distance or we'd get lost ourselves.

The fern is so high you could miss the boy. The crews could have passed him up five or six times. For that reason we duplicate the same area, sometimes 10 times.

We've seen a few bears but they will be no problem to the boy unless he should try to bother a mother and her cubs. They tell me he knows enough about the woods not to do that.

We have another search going on right now with 18 men in Sequoia National Forest looking for a boy the same age.

Underworld Link Established In Shooting of Joseph Colombo

NEW YORK (UPI) — In the first new development in days in the shooting of Joseph Colombo Sr., police detectives said Monday they had established a link between Colombo's attacker and the underworld family of Carlo Gambino.

Colombo, a reputed underworld leader and founder of the Italian-American Civil Rights League, remained in a coma today. He had not regained consciousness since the June 28 shooting.

Chief of Detectives Albert Seedman said Monday the man who shot Colombo, Jerome Johnson, had a room in a building that also houses an after-hours bar raided Sunday night.

Seedman said the bar, as well as others raided, was "reputedly controlled" by Paul DiBella, an alleged member of the Gambino family. DiBella was released on $5,000 bond Monday to await trial on charges of violating federal law in the operation of the bar, "Christopher's End."

Seedman said Johnson had "some contacts" with the Gambino family, and when asked, said it was possible Johnson could have been hired to kill Colombo. But Seedman said he had information he could not release and did not elaborate further.

Colombo was shot three times while attending an Italian-American rally near Central Park. Johnson, a Negro from New Brunswick, N.J., was shot to death immediately after wounding Colombo.

It is still not known who shot Johnson, but Seedman said it probably was "spontaneous" and possibly done by a Colombo bodyguard. Seedman said, however, Johnson probably would have been murdered at a later date by the underworld.

Colombo and Gambino reportedly are leaders of two rival underworld gangs.

Economy Pace Moving Upward

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although the economy is falling short of President Nixon's forecast, the pace of U.S. homebuilding is picking up and proving the brightest spot in the recovery from last year's recession.

The Commerce Department reported Monday privately owned housing starts in June climbed to an annual rate of 1.982 million units on a seasonally adjusted basis, up slightly from the May rate of 1.959 million units.

Homebuilding has made a dramatic comeback from last year's slowdown, when tight money policies and high interest rates hampered the industry. Housing starts have remained at a level of 1.9 million units over the last six months, a 48-per-cent increase over the same six-month period in 1970.

Although private residential construction is only a small part of the economy, Nixon administration officials see the rise as evidence of a broad upswing in the economy.

Nixon's own economic advisers already have abandoned part of that economic plan, a $.065-trillion economy this year. But they have said housing will be strong even though the economy will fall short of original expectations.

Last year, housing was in a depressed state. With the administration pursuing tight budgetary and monetary policies, interest rates climbed to historic highs and homebuilding tailed off.

In June a year ago, housing starts were at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.398 million.

But the real pickup in homebuilding came toward the end of last year as the administration made the budget more expansive and the Federal Reserve Board eased up considerably on the monetary supply.

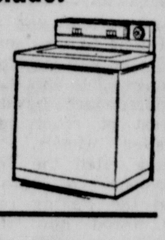

As a result, the ceiling on government-backed housing loans dropped from a record high of 8½ per cent last year to 7 per cent at present.

Pornography Raid

Undoubtedly in the hopes of preventing the Central Broadway area from becoming another little Times Square, complete with row upon row of flesh shops pandering to obscenity, Kingston police raided a local "bookshop" last Thursday, seizing large quantities of books and films and other questionable implements.

The proprietor of the store and an employe were both arrested and charged with obscenity, second degree. The pair is now free in $1,000 bail with their case scheduled to be heard in city court July 26.

We don't know how the authorities will fare in court since somehow the terms obscenity and freedom of expression have become intertwined in the minds of some jurists across the nation . . . but regardless of the outcome we feel our police are doing their jobs in attempting to snuff out this smut before it gets a toehold in Kingston.

Turn-in-a-Pusher

In Tampa, Fla., as in many medium-sized cities throughout the nation, drugs have become a serious problem. Tampa has hit on a way of locating pushers, the ones who create a demand for drugs and supply it, to the regret of parents and responsible citizens.

Tampa's "Turn-in-a-Pusher" program has created a small army of tipsters only too eager to put the finger on the low lives who pushed them or their friends or their children into the misery of the drug habit. It began in February, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce and businesses which contributed funds for the TIP bounty.

Informants call their tips into a secret office manned by civilians. The callers are warned not to reveal their names. Instead, they are assigned a code name. Once a pusher named by the informant is convicted, the reward money awaits another call from the code-named informant. Cash is placed in an envelope and arrangements can be made for delivery, still preserving the informants' anonymity.

TIP attracted 2,930 calls in the first six months, 37 arrests and five convictions. Under continuing surveillance are 262 more suspects uncovered by informers. The rewards of $100 to $500, depending on a pusher's activities and the age group with which he is dealing, has helped flush the pushers. It has also pushed the pushers underground where they can't operate as effectively.

And Now, Vulcanized

With its customary glee at discovering a new threat to the health of Americans, the Health Bulletin, founded by the late J. I. Rodale, reports on a study of automobile tires conducted at the University of Cincinnati.

In a four-month driving test using a variety of ordinary automobiles with different makes of tires, the researchers calculated that as the rubber wears away on the nation's tens of millions of vehicles, it enters the atmosphere in the form of particulates and gaseous emissions to the tune of 340,000 a year.

And some of it winds up in human lungs—or so they assume, since the particles range down in size to 40-billionths of an inch and half of them are small enough to be inhaled and deposited in the lungs.

No one has yet conducted a study to find out how much, if any, rubber Americans are carrying around in their lungs or how much harm, if any, it is doing.

But don't let that stop you from worrying.

CALIFORNIA YOUTH VOTE—The new California youth vote makes up 10 per cent of all those eligible to use the ballot box across the nation by virtue of the 26th Amendment. That explains the tremendous effort being made by get-out-the-vote groups to harness the potential political muscle of this great new sector of the electorate. We hope the youth will be wise in looking into the credentials of their wooers.

BERRY'S WORLD

"So you're a member of the 'oppressed sex.' May I ask which one?"

Jack Anderson Says

Cosmetic Surgery at Three Hospitals

WASHINGTON — The wives and daughters of America's men in uniform can now have their noses straightened, faces lifted and bustlines expanded at taxpayer expense by top plastic surgeons in three of the nation's best hospitals.

Such operations are being performed in increasing numbers at Bethesda Naval Hospital, Walter Reed Army Medical Center, both in the Washington area, and Lackland Air Force Base Hospital near San Antonio.

While some are done to correct deformities or to repair damage from accidents or other surgery, many were performed solely for cosmetic purposes.

In view of the boost this benefit might give morale and the possibilities it opens up for stepped up recruiting, it's a wonder the military has kept the program so quiet.

For example, the Pentagon might take a page from a popular anti-smoking slogan: "Join the unhooked generation!" or, the old Marine pitch could be changed to read, "The Marine Corps builds men (and women, too)."

There is a reason for the military hospitals to offer some cosmetic surgery. In order for the program to be accredited by the American Board of Plastic Surgery, it must offer a full range of plastic surgery services.

Moreover, the military contends cosmetic operations are done strictly on a space-available basis and they receive the lowest priority. Most days the doctors are busy trying to restore the damaged faces and bodies of injured Vietnam veterans.

Capt. Wilbur Latham, chief of the plastic surgery division at Bethesda Naval Hospital, explained that all candidates for cosmetic surgery are carefully screened.

Judge vs. Sheriff

When Federal Judge Willis Ritter convened a grand jury in Salt Lake City this year to investigate the local county sheriff's office, he acted suspiciously like a man trying to settle an old score.

We have now learned that the sheriff, Delmar Larson, was one of the FBI agents who investigated Ritter's background when he was up for confirmation during the Truman administration.

Larson helped dig up the fact that Ritter had made phone calls and a trip to see his girl friend in New Mexico at government expense while working for the Office of Price Administration.

Ritter's confirmation was held up for months by the FBI disclosures. It seems the judge never forgot.

The grand jury investigation into Sheriff Larson's office came only months after the state grand jury had made a thorough probe and refused to return indictments.

Instead, the state grand jury made a series of recommended changes which were already in the works before Ritter started his own probe.

The whole affair backfired on the judge, however, when the Justice Department discovered the grand jury had been improperly selected and ordered the Salt Lake U.S. Attorney to refuse to sign any indictments that might come from the Ritter probe.

Hospital Hassle

Our recent revelation that the government had agreed to shell out $750,000 to build a new hospital for three white Alabama doctors unwilling to share a spacious nearby hospital with black doctors has apparently torpedoed the project.

The Alabama State Board of Health has now asked the Macon County Hospital, which was seeking the funds, to withdraw its application.

Previously, the state health board had suspended release of the grant, which had been approved by Washington, pending investigation of the project.

The three white doctors who practice in predominantly black Macon County had wanted the money so that they could replace the existing 32-bed Macon County General Hospital.

The white doctors made virtually exclusive use of the old county hospital rather than take advantage of the new facilitiies at 145-bed John Andrew Hospital across town. John Andrew is used almost exclusively by the county's eight black doctors.

Staggers Reeling

Usually affable House Commerce Committee chairman Harley Staggers, D-W.Va., is still smarting from what he considers a personal insult from an old friend, Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla.

Albert, without telling Staggers, called a strategy session on how to defeat Stagger's attempt to cite CBS and its president Frank Stanton for contempt of Congress. Staggers was on the floor and heard of the meeting. He rushed to the Speaker's office just in time to find the secret parley breaking up.

A kindly colleague took Staggers beyond earshot of the crowding newsmen and told him that Albert had just sounded the death knell to Staggers's contempt citation. Staggers was doubly bitter when he learned that House Minority Leader Gerry Ford, Mich., had voted against him. Staggers beleved Ford had promised to back him. Ford's office said Staggers must have misunderstood.

Henry J. Taylor Says

Dalai Lama in Exile

GENEVA, Switzerland — The august International Commission of Jurists, headquartered here, sometime ago officially branded the Red Chinese regime as practicing genocide in Tibet—a horrible violation of all international law. And a high ICJ official, who cannot be identified at this time, visited His Holiness the Dalai Lama and gave me an intimate view of this religious leader who now lives in India.

In the Forbidden City of Lhasa, standing on a broad valley's 15,000-foot high plateau, all streets winding their way past gilded domes and spires lead to the Dalai Lama's red and white Potala. By Tibetan law no one may be higher than the Dalai Lama except the white clouds that seem to gambol in the sky like baby lambs. The Potala towers five stories above the ancient houses and other buildings, its entrance guarded by fierce mastiffs tugging at their short chains.

All distances throughout Tibet — twice the size of Texas — are measured to the Potala. All altitudes in this highest country in the world are calculated in comparison with Lhasa. (Strangely, the Himalayas do not seem so high when you see them. They rise from such a high plateau. Mt. Everest itself rises only 13,000 feet above the plateau.)

The country's correct name is Po and its 1.3 million people somehow live there. His Holiness' given name is Tenzing Gyatso. The religion is Lamaism, a form of Buddhism, and he is the 14th Dalai Lama. Lama means monk of top hierarchiacal rank, and Tibetans regard His Holiness as the incarnation of the great Avalokitesvara, whose successors depend on the Buddihist doctrine of reincarnation.

His Holiness lives in exile at Upper Dharamasala, East Punjab, India, on a forlorn rim of the Himalayas. When Red China ruthlessly overran Tibet, committing ghastly blood bath in Lhasa, the Dalai Lama — in disguise — barely escaped with his life. And his mastiffs are still with him in protection against a sudden Red assassination attempt.

Tens of thousands of Tibetans also fled and are refugees in northern India — sustained almost entirely by pitying Americans who send them sums from the United States.

The ICJ official told me the Dalai Lama has a gentle Chekovian sadness about him — the victim of the void that haunts people whose world has become empty, but a man with a noble soul and a poet's heart who carries himself with indomitable courage and unfailing gallantry.

I was told, too, that His Holiness remains in good health. He has youth on his side — the Dalai Lama is 36 — and distinguished Dr. William T. Foley of New York gives him a checkup periodically. He is intensely pro-American and actually is planning to visit our country. "If you will arrange it," he suggested to the ICJ official.

Surrounded by a veritable forest of revolving, tinkling prayer wheels, the Dalai Lama cited the "destructive passions" of Mao Tse-tung and the Peking regime and he asked how the United Nations, which has formally and officially branded Red China an aggressor for invading Tibet, Korea, etc., can even consider voting Red China into the U.N. in the face of its absolute disbarment under the U.N. charter.

The Dalai Lama promulgated a draft constitution for Tibet, recognizing the teachings of both Buddha and the democratic system based on justice. It also invoked the blessings of Tibet's revered Triple Gems for peace and happiness to all sentient beings. In Buddhist countries there is more emphasis on women doing the work than the men. The Dalai Lama struck a healthy blow against this and developed reforms throughout the social system.

When Red China overran this neighbor, however, Mao forced the country to sign what is known as the 17-point agreement. By this pact Tibet surrendered its military defenses in the high Himalayan passes and disavowed her sovereignty to become an integral part of Chinese territory." Red China immediately built immense airfields looking down on India.

Mao enthroned the puppet Panchen Lama in Lhasa. Then he demoted him and sponsored the current stooge, Mgapo Mgawang Jigme, as chairman of the Tibet Autonomous Region. Then Mao seized part of India, and the Indian nonsense about collaboration with Red China was shattered in the Himalayan snows.

Jackson Pins Hopes on Florida

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington will make his key early run in the 81-vote Florida primary next March — if he decides late this year to become an avowed 1972 bidder.

Jackson's visit to Florida this July will be his fourth there. And his chief field operative, the veteran Hy Raskin, is canvassing the state after a recent probe of Oregon, another major primary state.

The focus on Florida obviously reflects Jackson's judgment that he would stand an excellent chance of corraling delegates there in a likely competition with Senators Edmund Muskie, Hubert Humphrey, Birch Bayh and possibly others. For the same reason Jackson may give a lot of time to the new Tennessee primary coming up next May 4. Some leaders have told him he has a real edge right now.

What baffles the cheerful, outgoing Washington senator these days is the small but influential New Hampshire primary.

Just a short time back, Jackson had another exploratory meeting on New Hampshire, conferring for more than an hour with nearly 50 of that state's Democrats, including the 1970 governor nominee, Roger Crowley. But the session, held in Boston was inconclusive.

Jackson properly figures Muskie has a long leg up on New Hampshire. The polls so indicate. The question for Jackson are whether he might make a respectable showing, as his supporters contend, whether he needs to take the risk of trying to build quick credibility as a challenging candidate. At the moment, both the New Hampshire and Florida primaries are set for March 14, but the former probably will change to March 7.

Jackson in July makes his first foray into New Hampshire after long months of fending off appeals from Crowley and others.

The senator shows little sign of slackening pace. He has already hit 20 states, with some stress on the South, Southwest, and West. He has been to crucial California (271 votes) more often than any other candidate.

The pace, the continuing inflow of money, the field probings of Raskin, and the visible encouragement from key labor men add up to a very serious effort. He is cautiously practical, however, about the well-reported interest shown by AFL-CIO President George Meany and others. In an interview, Jackson said:

'Labor has opened all the doors to me. But they're keeping their options open, too."

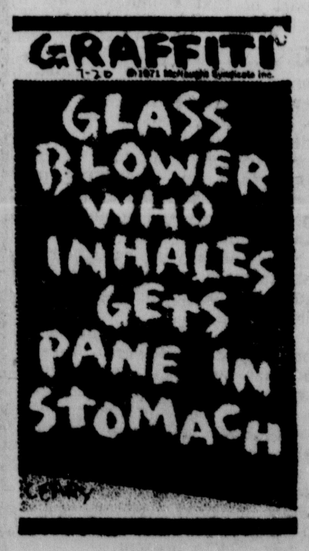

The senator's blend of hard-line defense views and domestic liberalism captivates labor and helps him in the South. In his travels, he works hard to keep the balance, to keep his liberal record in plain sight. Bits from his fast trip to West Virginia:

"I'm a liberal . . . I believe in doing something for the unfortunate . . . I'm a lifelong environmentalist . . . As one who fought the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy . . ."

Putting together his wish and his judgment, Jackson tells listeners the economy will be the big 1972 issue. He is not alone in arguing that Vietnam, notwithstanding the published Pentagon papers, will probably not figure heavily in the coming campaign.

On the platform, he builds no fires. But audiences like his directness, and the impression he gives of sophisticated competence on issues. Curiously, though, he conveys simultaneously a kind of small-town innocence.

Some observers think his innocence extends to politics, that he can't see how divisive his nomination might be in a party constantly shaken by its ardent left. He doesn't believe it. And there's nothing unsophisticated about the way he draws the cameras down on his effort to prove himself broadly acceptable. He is eager — and he has know-how to match.

Ellenville Residents Protest Bridge Issue

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE

Many residents of Ellenville are not overburdened with trust.

Their lack of trust was demonstrated at last night's meeting of the Ellenville Village Board, where protest was raised over the building of abutments and wingwalls for the Webster Street Bridge.

The trustees have already passed the bond issue for $77,000 and given the money to the state, the structures have been placed in the Corps of Engineers Flood Control specifications, and the bid for the work was awarded to the Servidone Construction Co. with the structures included.

It was the feeling of the village board, on the advice of Village Engineer Alex Diachishin, that the bridge, located as it is in the flood control project area, could be more cheaply constructed if the footings were installed as part of the project. Robert Lockwood, of Diachishin's firm, who was pinch-hitting for him at last night's meeting, said it could cost as much as 50 per cent more to break into the dikes rather than build the footings in now.

Ellenville resident Louis Shore was against the construction without a referendum. He said he didn't trust anybody, and "when it comes to this kind of money, people should have a say."

Getting a good deal of support from the audience, he said the new Route 52, to which the bridge would ostensibly connect, was not even in the design stages, and the bridge was "only a private bridge to a private company that doesn't pay taxes in Ellenville." He was referring to VAW.

Sol Steinhoff, a former member of the board of trustees, said nobody had promised anybody anything, and the village had no right to build a bridge any way. He cited "McKinney's Law" which he said required state and county approval for the town to build a bridge more than six feet wide.

Village Manager Lawrence E. Eyres pointed out that no money had been put in the bond issue to finish the bridge. Mayor Robert Dowling, with the board's permission, requested Village Attorney Alex J. Nirenberg to determine what, if anything, the village could do to get its money back, if it wanted to, and if it could hold a referendum. Trustee David Kramer said he would like to know when it was decided to locate the bridge on Webster Street, saying "somebody better come up with the minutes." Steinhoff said it was time to end special privilege, and he and other citizens would take it to court to get satisfaction.

Nobody appeared satisfied.

The Citizen's Advisory Committee made nine suggestions for the improvement of Ellenville. They were to make the Town of Wawarsing get its own dump, install public restrooms in the business district, improve parking, build a basketball court for Ellenville's youth, complete traffic markings, repair village sidewalks, inspect parking meters, install and mark trash cans, and patrol the village on foot instead of in a car.

Six of the nine proposals have already been accomplished or are being acted upon, according to Dowling and Eyres.

Leo Cohen, the head of the committee, presented the proposals, and scored the board for not adopting a traffic plan for the summer.

The memories of the hassle over traffic this spring and summer are still painful to the members of the board, and Trustee Walter Grey voiced their litany of discontent. He went through the plans suggested, the work done, and the opposition raised to every one of them.

Steinhoff wasn't satisfied. He said the trustees would have to do what is best for the community as a whole and ignore whatever protest they thought was misdirected.

Mrs. Audrey Greene, who may or may not be the head of the Ulster Mental Health Clinic in Ellenville depending on to whom you are speaking, brought up the issue of Judge Ronald Elias' sewer, a formerly lively topic which had enjoyed a vacation from public notice.

She demanded to see a report from the village engineer on the matter. Water Department Superintendent John Beilman said he had received an oral report, but Mrs. Greene wanted it in writing, and Eyres said he'd get it for her.

Agency Takes Eviction Vote

ELLENVILLE

The Ellenville Urban Renewal Agency voted to evict the Miller Appliance Co., Inc. from the Urban Renewal property on Center Street it is now renting.

The action came at last night's meeting of the agency.

The grounds for the eviction will be non-payment of rent. According to Ellenville Interim Urban Renewal Director Gerald Herman, Manuel Miller, head of the company has refused to pay his rent, has made no provisons for moving, and has refused to meet with the urban renewal board to work out the problem.

Urban Renewal Attorney Alex J. Nirenberg was directed to take all legal action necessary to evict Miller and recover the back rent, interest, and court costs.

Miller was charged $650 per month for the property. The agency had purchased the property for $52,000 this spring, and the standard agency formula of yearly rent being 15 per cent of the purchase price was applied.

Herman said Miller had complained the rent was too high, and had never paid any of it.

Herman reported the planning firm of Lucas and Edwards was "pessimistic" about the possibilities of getting funds to re-work the urban renewal plan.

John Edwards Jr., of the planning firm, said Martin Siegel, district HUD representative, had told him the Ellenville Urban Renewal project was characterized by "inertia" and a large turnover of personnel, according to Herman.

Herman will arrange a date for a meeting with HUD officials in New York on the question.

Monsignor Ostermann Moved to The Bronx

KINGSTON

Monsignor Joseph D. Ostermann, pastor emeritus of St. Peter's Church, Kingston, was transferred last week to Mother Frances Schervier Nursing Home, 2975 Riverdale Avenue, the Bronx, after having been a patient at Benedictine Hospital for more than six months.

On January 4, Ostermann suffered a diabetic attack. Shortly after his admission to Benedictine Hospital, he went into a coma and suffered a mild stroke. During recuperation, he complained of abdominal pains and underwent surgery for the removal of his gall bladder.

He will remain at the Bronx nursing home for his convalesence.

Prior to his illness, while pastor at St. Peter's, Rev. Ostermann was a daily visitor to the hospital, consoling his parishioners who were patients there. Sister Mary Charles, administrator of the hospital, said during Ostermann's illness, "He has been so good to us and we want to do everything we can for him.

While at Benedictine, he received visits from many friends and parishioners and received hundreds of get well cards and spiritual bouquets.

Hey, Did You Hear The One About the Low Cost of "Utility" Fuel?

Listen to this!

People are funny. Sometimes we believe just what we want to believe . . . about heating costs, for instance. When the public utilities say they can heat our homes for less, we believe them because we want it to be true. Unfortunately, nothing could be further from the truth. It's an easily demonstrable fact that other fuels may be as much as 2½ times as costly. In dollars and cents, that means an oil heat bill for $185 per year could balloon to nearly $500 with electric heat. And of course, no heat is cleaner, more comfortable or nearly as safe as Oilheat. So—don't depend on a story, get the facts from your local heating supplier before you find that Oilheat costs less . . . it's as simple as that.

Several Charges Against Two Men

KINGSTON

An investigation by State Police BCI officers of recent burglaries in the Woodstock area, Monday night resulted in the arrest of two men on charges of criminal possession of stolen property, a felony, and the recovery of numerous household furnishings reportedly taken in recent break-ins, authorities said.

Terrence Francis Fischer, 27, and Edwin Charles Healy, 26, both of 17 Arlington Place, were arraigned before Special City Judge George A. Beck last night. Pleas of innocence were entered and the defendants were committed to the Ulster County jail in lieu of $1,500 cash bail or a $3,000 property bond.

The arrests climaxed a lengthy investigation that has been underway by BCI Investigators C.S. VanWagenen, W.E. Beyea and David Wachtel, police said.

A search warrant previously issued by Judge Beck was executed early Monday night by officers, who went to the Arlington Place residence where the defendants reside. Search of the premises resulted in the seizure of numerous articles including radios, television sets, stereo equipment, rugs and other household furnishings, authorities said.

Assisting in the search and arrests were City Detectives Kenneth Radel and Patrick Colbert.

The investigation is being continued by State Police.

Revolutionary Regime Overthrown in Sudan

BEIRUT (UPI)—Rebel army officers ejected from the Sudanese government nine months ago for their Communist sympathies have overthrown the revolutionary regime of the Sudan in an apparently bloodless coup and today set up a ruling council, Arab radio broadcasts said.

Baghdad Radio said a public demonstration of support for the new regime was scheduled in Khartoum today. The Middle East News Agency (MENA) said Col. Babkr Al Nour headed the revolutionary council of the new regime.

The radio said Maj. Gen. Gaffar Al-Numeiry, who had ruled the Sudan as head of the Revolutionary Command Council (RCC) since he seized power in a coup May 25, 1969, was under arrest with several other leaders of the old government at general military headquarters in Khartoum.

No shooting was reported although rebel forces led by Maj. Hashem Atta Monday ringed the Presidential Palace at Khartoum with tanks, seized the Omdurman radio station, closed the airport and cut telephone lines between the capital and other cities in the Sudan, Africa's largest country in land area.

Atta was appointed commander-in-chief of the armed forces today, Omdurman Radio announced.

The radio, quoted by MENA, said the new command council has seven officers with Atta installed as vice president. A third officer who was expelled as a Communist by Numeiry, Maj. Farouk Hamdallah, was made a council member.

Baghdad radio announced that Iraq has recognized the new regime. It is the first nation to do so.

Capp Accepts Extradition

BOSTON (UPI)—Cartoonist Al Capp is not fighting extradition to Wisconsin to answer morals charges involving a 20-year-old married coed, one of his lawyers said Monday.

Alvin S. Hochberg, who is assisting attorney Edward Bennett Williams in the case, said Capp's extradition proceedings in Boston Municipal Court were continued last week to Sept. 28 because of an apparent agreement between Williams and Wisconsin authorities.

"Mr. Capp will be in Wisconsin before the 28th," Hochberg said.

Capp, 61, a resident of Cambridge, Mass. and creator of the comic strip "Li'l Abner," pleaded innocent May 18 in Municipal Court to the charges. Warrants had been issued May 5 charging him with sodomy, attempted adultry and indecent exposure April 1 involving a coed at Eau Claire (Wis.) State University where he was lecturing.

Unemployment Rate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The unemployment rate in the poorest neighborhoods of the nation's 100 largest metropolitan areas rose to 10.1 per cent during the period from April through June, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said today.

The figure compared with a 9 per cent rate during the previous three months and was nearly twice the 5.8 per cent jobless rate in other urban neighborhoods.

A 9-year-old Poughkeepsie girl who survived a fatal traffic accident on Route 9W in Port Ewen that claimed the lives of her parents and three children, remained in critical condition at Albany Medical Center today.

Terry Lynn Ronk of 59 Taylor Avenue in the Dutchess County city, suffered multiple injuries in the car-truck crash which occurred during a rain shower last Saturday evening.

Three Violations Charged After High Speed Chase

TOWN OF KINGSTON

A high-speed chase that started on Washington Avenue in Kingston and ended near the West Hurley firehouse early today, resulted in the arrest of an 18-year-old youth on three vehicle and traffic law violations.

Cited was the driver of the pursued vehicle identified as Merville Davis of 29 Wall Street West Hurley. He was booked for driving at a speed not reasonable and prudent, unsafe tires and failure to comply with a police order.

The arrest was made by Deputy Sheriffs Roger Lapp and Angel Baez, who took the youth before Town Justice Robert E. Ferrigan to face the charges. Lapp said later that the charges of driving at a speed not reasonable and prudent and failure to comply were merged and the youth pleaded guilty.

Judge Ferrigan imposed a fine of $50 or 25 days in the county jail. The youth was committed to jail but later was released when the fine was paid. He will appear at a later date in the Town of Hurley Justice's court to face the charge of driving a motor vehicle with unsafe tires.

Lapp said he and Baez were on patrol on Washington Avenue shortly after 3:40 a.m. when the car driven by Davis passed the police car at a high speed. Lapp driving the sheriff's vehicle took up the pursuit. He said Davis drove around the traffic circle "on two wheels" and then headed out Route 28.

The chase continued to West Hurley where Davis reportedly turned in a side road and shut off the car motor and lights, but the brake lights were spotted by the deputies and the youth was taken in custoddy.

State Police Evacuate Area

MOREHEAD, Ky. (UPI)—State police bgtan evacuating about 1,500 residents from a rural, mountainous area near here Monday night when a dam under construction threatened to break.

State police and the Army Corps of Engineers said there was no spillway at the Cave Run Reservoir under construction on the Licking Valley River and the water in the reservoir would reach the top at about midnight, EDT.

They said it was "highly likely" the dam would break.

Should the dam hold, they said, the water still would spill over into areas of Bath and Rowan counties in northeastern Kentucky.

Recent, heavy rains caused the Licking Valley River to rise rapidly behind the reservoir.

The threatened area was near the northern edge of the Daniel Boon National Forest, between Interstate 64 and the towns of Farmers and Salt Lick.

Mohawk Group Will Benefit From Merger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The proposed merger between Allegheny Airlines and financially beset Mohawk Airlines should produce a profit in the first year, an Allegheny officer said Monday.

In testimony before the Civil Aeronautics Board, Allegheny's President Leslie O. Barnes termed the possibility of a profit "highly unusual," but he did not specify an amount.

Barnes also said that Allegheny, the surving airline in the merger, expected to be able to absorb "the employe surplus" from the merger.

Witnesses representing the state of New Hampshire, the City of Burlington, Vt., and Worcester, Mass., also testified in behalf of the merger, which would create an airline route system stretching from Montreal and Boston to Minneapolis in the west and Memphis in the south.

If approved, the merger would make Allegheny the sixth largest airline in the nation.

Barnes told the CAB that Allegheny would institute the merger of routes and equipment slowly to minimize "disruption of the two existing airline route systems."

For example, Barnes said all Allegheny's airliners will continue to operate on its present system in the first year of the merger, and only Mohawk's jetliners--not its prop-driven airliners--would be used for through service over the two routes.

"Allegheny believes that the merger will produce "a financially sounder company in the long run with a good subsidy reduction potential after the first year," Barnes said.

Car Accident Causes Death

MIDDLETOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Eugene Decker, 16, of Middletown, died early today of injuries received Monday in a one-car accident on Highland Avenue Extension in Wallkill, just outside this city.

Police said the car in which Decker was riding swerved to avoid a pedestrian and struck a tree.

His address was given as 391 North St.

Opposes Nuclear Test

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, said he would ask the Senate today to force cancellation of a five-megaton underground nuclear explosion planned this fall in the Aleutian Islands.

Gravel said the test was unnecessary because it is only designed to advance "a large warhead for an inferior, first-generation Spartan missile, which even Pentagon experts concede will soon be out of date . . ."

1972 Draft Order Will Be Drawn August 5th

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The draft lottery to decide the order in which young men will be called up in 1972 was set today for Aug. 5.

Selective Service officials said the "random sequence lottery" will be conducted at the U.S. Commerce Department auditorium to determine the order of call, by birth dates, of young men who became 19 this year.

Legislation to extend the basic induction provision of the draft law is snagged in Congress, and inductions have been halted since the old law expired July 1. House-Senate negotiations to resolve an impasse have been postponed until next Monday.

Although the induction provision has run out, draft officials said "the responsibility to conduct the lottery continues under draft law."

The lottery for next year originally had been set for July 15, but was postponed because of the congressional hangup over extension of the law.

Selective Service officials said the 1972 order of call was being held now because "the young men who face possible induction next year deserve to know their relative chances of induction so they are better able to plan ahead".

Both the House and Senate have voted to extend the draft but conferees are snagged over an end-the-war resolution attached by the Senate to a bill to extend the basic law for two years. The House negotiators are against setting any Vietnam withdrawal date.

Governor Wallace Sues Exempt Group

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace said he would file a suit today in Washington designed to end the federal income tax exemption granted many foundations.

Tax-exempt foundations have been a frequent target of criticism by Wallace, who says he objects to those that are "superficially" charitable, religious and educational in their operation and "provide tax shelter for the super-rich."

The governor's office said Monday his suit would be filed with the Supreme Court against the secretary of the Treasury and the commissioner of Internal Revenue asking that each be "restrained and enjoined from exempting the income of private foundations, religious institutions, organizations and other similar associations from the federal income tax."

Wallace said he would not contest the exempt status of foundations "organized and operated solely for the purpose of holding religious services, maintaining a place of worship and engaging in truly public and charitable activities for the alleviation of human suffering and misery."

Miss Ruth Ellen Ferris Weds Charles I. Nielson

MRS. CHARLES I. NIELSON
(Lakesde Studio)

Miss Ruth Ellen Ferris of New Paltz became the bride of Charles I. Nielson of New Paltz on Sunday, July 11 at Gardiner Reformed Church. The Rev. E. J. Brunemeyer officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. William Seitz, organist, accompanied Gary Decker who provided traditional wedding selections.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Ferris of New Paltz. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Nielson of New Paltz.

Baskets of brightly colored mixed flowers decorated the altar and white bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a gown of white silk organza styled with a full skirt gathered at the empire waistline. The gown and detachable train were accented with ruffled hemlines and lace woven with satin ribbon. Her four-tiered silk illusion veil was held by a lace organza headpiece and she carried a colonial bouquet of mixed white flowers.

Joyce Ferris of New Paltz was maid of honor for her sister in a gown of white silk organza styled with short puffed sleeves, a scooped neckline and ruffled hemline. The gown was accented with a mint green bow at the empire waistline. She carried a bouquet of brightly colored flowers.

Attendants were Pam Nielson, sister of the bridegroom, New Paltz; Carole Sauer, cousin of the bride, Washingtonville; and Karen Hasbrouck, New Paltz. Their white gowns were identical in styling to that of the honor attendant's but with avocado ribbons at the empire waist. All carried bouquets of brightly colored flowers.

Robert Klemann of New Rochelle served as best man. Ushers were David Roehrs of Clintondale; William Luedeke, New Paltz; and Roger Ferris, cousin of the bride, Middletown.

A reception was held at the Capri '400' Restaurant in Port Ewen.

The bride, a graduate of State University College at New Paltz, is a teacher in Rondout Valley School System. Her husband, a June graduate of Franklin Pierce College, Rindge, N. H., is associated with Home and Hardware, Simmons Plaza, New Paltz.

When Mr. and Mrs. Nielson return from their wedding trip to Williamsburg and Virginia Beach, Va., they will reside at New Paltz.

MR. AND MRS. ERICH KRAUSE of West Shokan were given a surprise 40th wedding anniversary party July 18 at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Francis Warren of West Hurley. Married July 14, 1931 in Long Island, their attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Erich Schmidt. Mr. and Mrs. Krause have two grandchildren, Cindy and Lynda. Mr. Krause is self-employed at Erich's Body Shop of West Shokan. Many relatives and friends came to express congratulatory wishes. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Saratoga Performing Arts Ball Honorees

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney and Mr. and Mrs. John Hay Whitney will be the guests of honor at the seventh Annual Saratoga Performing Arts Ball, according to an announcement made yesterday by the chairman of the Ball, Mrs. Charles S. Dake.

The Ball is a traditional function of the Saratoga Performing Arts Center and benefits the many educational programs sponsored by the Center. This year's event features the Skitch Henderson Orchestra and follows a concert of predominantly Spanish music by The Philadelphia Orchestra under Rafael Fruhbeck de Burgos.

The three couples being honored at the Ball are enthusiastic supporters of the Saratoga Performing Arts Center and have contributed generously to it both before and since its inception. Mrs. Charles Shipman (Joan) Payson, best known as the owner of baseball's New York Mets, C.V. ("Sonny") Whitney, a prominent crusader for the preservation of the Adirondacks in their present wild estate, and John Hay ("Jock") Whitney, former ambassador to Great Britain, are all members of the Board of Directors of the Center. John Hay Whitney is also the vice-president of the Board.

Aside from their cultural interests, the six guests-of-honor are leaders of the Saratoga racing community. Their distinguished ancestor, William Collins Whitney, was responsible for making Saratoga the nation's thoroughbred racing capital and gave his name to the Whitney Stakes, one of the sport's major events, which by a neat calendar coincidence will take place the same day as the Ball. John Hay Whitney and Joan Payson, who are brother and sister, and their cousin, C.V. Whitney, are major stable owners and perennial August residents in the Spa City.

The Ball, which is "going Spanish" this year and will be called "Fiesta", is chaired by Mrs. Charles S. Dake of Greenfield Center, with Mrs. Hollis E. Harrington as her co-chairman. Further information may be obtained by writing or calling the Department of Development, Saratoga Performing Arts Center, Saratoga Springs.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY C. WOLTMAN of Staten Islannd and Lackawack were guests of honor at a surprise 40th wedding anniversary party given by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Woltman of 78 Andrew Street, Kingston. Married July 18, 1931, at Sacred Heart Church, Staten Island, they are the parents of another son, Harry Woltman of Hummelstown, Pa. Relatives from Staten Island, Cleveland, Ohio, and Pennsylvania attended the gala including the couples 13 grandchildren and many area friends. Mrs. Woltman is a retired first grade school teacher and her husband is retired from the printing trade in New York City. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Consumers React to Legislation

Consumers have a chance to react to new Food and Drug Administration proposals for changes in the fat labeling laws for food, says Louise K. Breitung, Extension Home Economomist. The proposals aim to help consumers identify the amount, source, and type of fats in the foods they buy. The proposals would require manufacturers of processed food to give the animal or vegetable source, such as beef fat, chicken fat, or corn oil. At present oils and fats need be only labeled as "shortening" or "vegetable oil". If the fat is hydrogenated, the new labeling would require this fact to be on the label. If combinations of fats are used, all would be listed in order of predominance. For special dietary foods, manufacturers would be allowed to show the kinds of fatty acids present.

Consumers have 90 days from June 15, the publishing date for the new proposals in the Federal Register, to write in their comments. Comments may be filed, preferably in quintuplicate, with the Hearing Clerk, DHEW, Room 6-62, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Maryland 20852. Reprints of the proposals are available from the New York District Food and Drug Administration, 850 Third Avenue, Brooklyn, New York 11232.

CURRENT MARKET REPORT

Meats — This is the season of the year when homemakers often select cold cuts on their food marketing trip. Cold cuts are convenient. They are ready to eat as purchased so have little waste and most do not require further cooking. It is easy to compare costs on cold cuts because each pound is entirely edible and will yield at least four servings. Store cold cuts in the refrigerator since they are perishable.

Fruits and vegetables — A large variety of fresh fruits and vegetables are available to shoppers at reasonable cost. Many produce items are coming from local producing areas in New Jersey, New York, and on Long Island. Among vegetables, shoppers should check on snap beans, beets, greens, cabbage, celery, cucumbers, endive, escarole, scallions, peppers, summer squash, potatoes, radishes, and lettuce — Iceberg, Bibb, leaf, Boston and romaine. Leading fruit selections include bananas, watermelons, cantaloupes, honey dew melons, peaches, rhubarb, strawberries, and other berries. A number of fruits will come down in price in the next few weeks as the local season gets into full swing.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1971, by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: What can a mother do when she has a 19-year-old daughter who comes in at 7:30 a.m. and expects to be greeted with open arms? If I raise my voice she tells me I'm crazy.

I can't throw her out as she has no job, no money and no husband. She has a 10-month-old baby I love very much. I take care of the baby while she sleeps all day.

My daughter is a beautiful girl with a nice figure and she doesn't hesitate to tell you so. I only wish her brain was the same.

Your column is the only thing she ever reads in the paper. Maybe if you printed this, it might wake her up.

MOM

DEAR MOM: She's up! Somebody should wake you up. As long as you continue to look after her child while she sleeps all day and stays out all night, nothing will change. Why should it? She's got it made. A child (of any age or marital status), while living in her parents' home, should be made to abide by the standard of that home — or vamoose!

DEAR ABBY: I am a very warm-blooded girl who craves affection, and I am married to a very cold touch-me-not type of man. We have two children. Don't ask me how they got here. They were both accidents. But accidents like that don't happen to us very often.

The big blowup came last night when he took me to a drive-in movie. It was a romantic film so I snuggled up close to him and he kept moving away from me until he was practically on the fender. I asked him to kiss me, and he said, "No, not here." (We were all alone in a closed car, and it was pitch dark.) Well, it ruined my whole evening.

I know I am not all that bad, Abby. He keeps telling me he "loves" me, so why doesn't he show me?

HUNGRY FOR LOVE

DEAR HUNGRY: Your man doesn't know how to give love because he has never been taught, and he probably hadn't received much love in his early life. Teach him. But not in a drive-in.

DEAR ABBY: Approximately 20 million people belong to an organization called the "HOH" (Hard of Hearing.) Simple communication — as easy as breathing to others is a constant frustrating experience to the HOH.

If the general public will practice for basic rules with those who have a hearing problem we would be eternally grateful:

1. Get his attention.
2. Face to face visiting.
3. Good enunciation, rather than shouting.
4. Avoid long-winded detailed stories . . . even about your grandchildren.

Respectfully,
DER PROFFESSOR, PRESIDENT.

DEAR PROFESSOR: Hear! Hear!

DEAR ABBY: Where did you ever get the idea that it's a wife's "duty" to get her husband up in the morning.

If a man is old enough to get married he should be old enough to get himself up.

I can remember my mother "getting my father up" every morning, and there was a fight in our house that lasted 20 years because of it. It used to start my mother's day off wrong and my father used to go to work irritated and resentful.

Before I was married my mother told me to never be a man's alarm clock, and I took her advice.

My husband has to get himself up. And he's been late only once and then he had only himself to blame.

NO-ALARM CLOCK

DEAR NO ALARM: There are two lessons to be learned here. (1) Never be a man's alarm clock. (2) It's much easier to tell someone else what to do than to do it oneself.

DEAR ABBY: With summer here will you please say a word to housewives who have clothes dryers, but insist upon hanging clothes outdoors every weekend?

When we have guests for a cookout and are sitting on our patio having cocktails it is not the most appetizing sight to see a pair of 46 bloomers flapping in the breeze. Thank you!

SIZE 10 AND DRIES INDOORS.

DEAR "SIZE 10": Aw, kwitcher bragging. An eyesore is an eyesore. What has size to do with it?

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 68700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Postal Service Offers Suggestions to Vacationers

KINGSTON — As the 1971 vacation season reaches its peak, the U.S. Postal Service offers the following suggestions to postal customers who will be away from home for extended periods:

—Have a neighbor or friend hold the mail until your return. An overflowing mail box invites thieves to empty it, or break into your house.

—As an alternative, a customer may ask his post office to hold his mail until he returns empty your mail box daily and from vacation. Upon written request, mail will be held up to 30 days, unless the sender has specified it be returned sooner if delivery cannot be accomplished within a certain time limit.

—If you are going to be away for a considerable period of time, file a forwarding order with the local post office. Forwarding of first class mail does not require additional postage.

—Post card writers should buy enough stamps before leaving to prevent the possibility of running out far away from the nearest post office.

—Use Zip Codes and sufficient postage to make sure that "wish you were here" card gets there.

—Remember, regular size post cards require 6 cents postage when sent first class. Postage for airmail post cards is 9 cents.

—If you do have your mail forwarded temporarily, notify the post office immediately upon your return home so the forwarding order can be cancelled.

EXTENDED CARE FACILITY—The scheduled completion date for this 50-bed addition to Northern Dutchess Hospital is October. The unit is primarily an extended care facility for convalescing patients, thus freeing much needed regular hospital beds. Much of the work has been financed through an intensive fund drive directed at residents of the Northern Dutchess area. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Semi-Failure of Coffeehouse Is Blamed to Lack of Effort

RHINEBECK

Town Justice DeWitt Gurnell cited a lack of effort on both sides in a semi-failure of the teenage coffeehouse project in Rhinebeck.

The program, which had good attendance of more than 50 persons in its initial stages last autumn and winter, is in a state of limbo with the Town Board and the kids waitng until school starts in September to see if it will be reopened.

The informal basis of the coffeehouse idea was a weekend gathering place for the teenagers in the basement of the Town Hall. It was decorated and served as a sort of hangout.

The basement is closed for the summer to the teenage traffic on a decision of the Town Board and a seeming lack of widespread interest among the young for continuing through the hot months.

Judge Gurnell also said that some youths had inflicted minor damage to the the building, influencing the decision of the Board.

He said that about 15 to 20 young persons huddled with himself, Town Supervisor William Allen, and Councilman Louis Asher after a recent Board meeting to discuss the future of the project. Allen asked the young people to write their suggestions for the future of the coffeehouse on a piece of paper and submit it to him . . . there was little response.

Judge Gurnell said that the attendance had dwindled to what he termed the "hard core" youths who maintained little interest in anything.

He also indicted the lack of response by the adult community especially the parents, for not helping out when they could. "We had a hard time securing parents to oversee," he said.

The judge said he thought just the open discussions, the maintenance of a dialogue, was a valuable asset but that there was a need for some type of adult supervision at the Town Hall.

There had been talk about the joint Town-Village Recreation Commission taking over the supervision of the project, since many of the kids felt the program do little for their age group.

But state funds were cut for recreation and were not restored until last week. Such ideas as block dances went out the window.

Some type of job-finding activity was also discussed. The Hometown Beautification program of the state lost its funds, cutting out some possible jobs, but an informal organization still managed to place several of the youths.

One of the "letdowns," according to Judge Gurnell, was the relatively large number of narcotics arrests of Rhinebeck youths this summer, coming as a shock to many of the older people who were wary of the coffeehouse anyway. While the arrests were not related to the coffeehouse, they served to lower many people's estimation of its value.

"We haven't proven our worth," said the judge. "It has been a good experience for me . . . it's the first time I have been involved with youth when I didn't try to plan things."

He said that a common failing in speaking to young people is trying to talk "to an entire group at once. They get bored and let you know it." The judge has attempted to maintain good relationships on an individual basis with many of the teenagers.

"It helps them feel like they are a part of the community," he said.

So Judge Gurnell is partially disillusioned, but summed up his feeling by saying, "We cannot stop trying. These youngsters can be a definite asset to our community."

Fire Coordination Office . . . How It Works

By TIM SCHUSTER

RED HOOK

County Representative Madison Sipperley Jr. explained in one of a continuing series of informative articles for his constituents of Red Hook and Rhinebeck how the Office of Fire Coordination works in Dutchess County.

The Office serves as the coordinating agency for the 35 fire departments in Dutchess County, including two city departments, eight village departments; and 25 other fire district departments. These 35 departments comprise 62 fire companies, operating 167 fire and [illegible] vehicles.

In 1970 the departments [illegible] a combined tax levy of $2,330,000. Based on a population then estimated at 218,000, now revised to 222,000, the cost per person for fire protection was $10.29 a year.

Areas of responsibility of the Office of Fire Coordination are: the Mutual Aid Plan, which provides methods under which any responsible fire officer in command at any fire or other emergency may request assistance from neighboring departments.

A standardized program of fire training, available to both paid firemen and volunteers throughout the county;

A supervised and coordinated County Fire Control Center, equipped and capable of receiving and acting on first alarms and other types of emergency calls throughout the county, and facilities for dispatching fire and emergency manpower and equipment to the scene;

A plan for working with Civil Defense, the State Conservation Department, and private fire-fighting forces maintained by local industries;

A coordinated emergency personnel including private and volunteer ambulance organizations as well as fire department first aid and rescue facilities which can be activated in time of large scale emergencies;

And fire investigation and inspection functions as requested by schools, churches, industries, and other organizations.

The Office of Fire Coordination employs 15 staff members including nine fulltime paid employees. They are a Chief Dispatcher and eight Fire Alarm Dispatchers.

The County Fire Coordinator, a part-time employee, serves as head of the department. He is assisted by five deputy coordinators who receive no pay except travel expense and nominal uniform allowance.

The fulltime employees maintain and operate the fire alarm facilities at the center and are specialists in the field of handling emergency calls of all types.

Needless to say, they have to be fully familiar with county roads, terrain, and emergency facilities.

Grand Union Request Will Be Considered

RHINEBECK

A decision on granting a special permit for a Grand Union shopping Center on Route 9, Astor Flats, is expected Wednesday evening from the Town of Rhinebeck Zoning Board of Appeals.

The Board considered the proposal for an initial 24,000 square foot food store in the chain at a public hearing two weeks ago. Chairman Arthur Carl announced at that time that a decision would probably be forthcoming at the July 21 meeting, at the Town Hall. It will be open to the public.

Other business to be considered at the meeting starts off with an 8 p.m. public hearing on a proposal to grant a zoning variance to Jeffrey Ackerman for a parcel of land on Route 9 about one mile south of the village.

Carl told The Freeman that Ackerman plans to open a commercial retail store selling appliances in that area. It is currently zoned residential.

Following the 8 p.m. hearing will be a recess while the Board draws up several resolutions, according to Carl, and then the public meeting will reconvene to consider the Grand Union and several other minor proposals.

He said that if the crowd is small, the meeting will probably be held in the basement room of the Town Hall instead of the regularly used large meeting room.

Water Group Plans Survey

KINGSTON

Members of the Lower Esopus Waterways Committee, interested in cleaning up the creek from the Washington Avenue Bridge to Glenerie Falls, will survey the waterway in order to take an inventory necessary in assessing costs of the project.

Information on how to take the survey was given the group at a recent meeting by Francis E. Mulvaney, district conservationist, Soil Conservation Service who advised that the assessment be made section by section.

He suggested that an inventory be taken of broken and fallen trees, erosive banks, sand and gravel bars, man-made obstructions and leaning trees on the edges of banks. At the completion of such an inventory, the Soil Conservation Service would then be able to make an estimate of costs per reach (section).

He explained that priorities would have to be set, easements and rights of way secured and the committee would have to locate access points to the river such as streets or open fields which could accomodate the removal of materials.

Richard Nace of the Lower Esopus Waterway Committee and a county legislator representing Dist. 2, said the group will meet soon again to plan the procedure for the inventory and assign work details.

Among those in attendance at the meeting were George Lahl, Ronald Amend, Alexander Bigelsen, and William Powers of the Town of Ulster Kiwanis Club.

"I agreed to tell why I use Sunoco gasoline if Sunoco would let me tell it in my own words. These are my words."

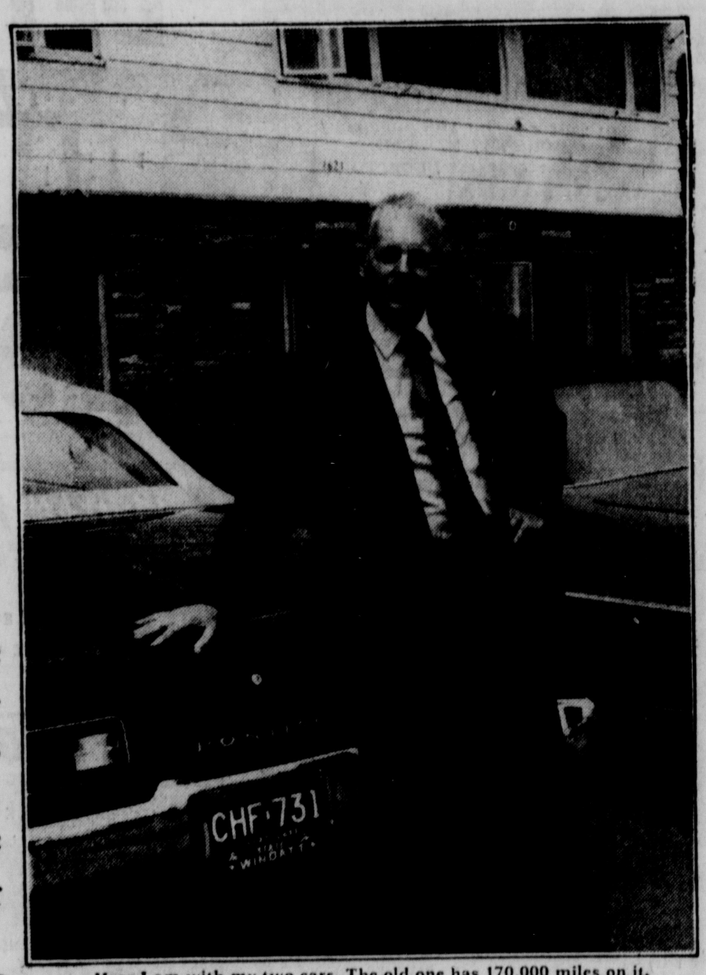

I've been using Sunoco for eight years now. When I can't get it, I can't get it, but otherwise it's my regular brand.

What got me onto Sunoco gasoline was finding out about all the options you have in octane ratings. I mean the Custom Blending Pump.

It has eight different grades, and that's more grades than any other station in town offers. I also asked a friend, a local gasoline pump manufacturer, about their pump, and he explained how it accurately measures 260 into every blend. And I hear 260 is the highest octane gasoline at any station.

This is me—Francis Ward. I live in Muskegon, Michigan.

Here I am with my two cars. The old one has 170,000 miles on it.

Well, having those eight octane choices, that's good for me. My cars, like all cars, have their own special octane needs for optimum performance. With my old one, it's right between normal regular and normal premium. That just happens to be 220; that's one of their middle premiums. I get nice performance, really very nice performance.

That's Don Richards with his back to you. He's one of the Sunoco guys I buy from.

My new '71 uses Sunoco regular...200. Can't imagine I'd get better performance from any regular around.

The things I've said here about Sunoco, possibly they're not exactly the results everybody would get. Different cars react differently, of course. What I'm saying is that I like Sunoco because of all the options they have in octane ratings, and the gasoline performs well in my cars.

JAWBONING SESSION: Oakland A's manager Dick Williams and umpire Bill Kunkel have a belly-to-belly argument in 9th inning on call that concluded a ball game in Orioles favor 4-2. Williams argued that Gene Tenace had beaten peg to first base. Ump disagreed, natch. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Anybody Know Who Bill Melton Is?

Faceless Sox Turn on Yanks

NEW YORK (AP) — To most baseball fans, the Chicago White Sox are a bunch of faceless names. Or is it nameless faces? But a lot of them played major roles as the Sox turned on the New York Yankees, who had won the first seven 1971 meetings, and swept Monday's twi-night doubleheader 8-3 in 10 innings and 3-1.

Bill Melton, who set a Sox record last season with 33 home runs and is up among the American League leaders with 21, laced a tie-breaking two-run single as Chicago pounded Mel Stottlemyre for five runs in the 10th inning—Ed Herrmann followed with a three-run homer—to take the opener.

It was Melton's fourth hit of the game and the only time he was retired came on a 400-foot fly ball. Melton was on the AL All-Star team last week and the first question put to him in Detroit went something 'ike this:

"How does it feel to be on the All-Star team in your rookie year?"

Another interviewer wanted to know, "That's a misprint in the statistics where it says you hit 33 home runs last year, isn't it? Shouldn't it be 13?"

"Nobody knows who Bill Melton is," Melton said Monday night. "Nobody talks to Bill Melton, nobody writes about Bill Melton."

The Yankees chased starter Jim Magnuson in the first inning and Vicente Romo, who hadn't gone more than 4 1-3 innings this season, came on to blank them on two hits for 6 2-3 frames. Rich Hinton, just up from the minors and making his third appearance in three days, held the fort for two innings and got his first major league win.

"Romo was just fantastic," said Manager Chuck Tanner. "He kept us in the game. Hinton gets the win, but Romo did some job. There should be some kind of rule so he could share in the credit."

Hinton, a 24-year-old left-hander, has now pitched five innings in the majors, allowing no runs, only two hits and one walk.

"I warmed up when we were in Washington," he said, "but I didn't feel scared or anxious. I warmed up here Saturday in the third inning and at that moment it struck me and my heart started pounding when I realized I might make my major league debut in Yankee Stadium. But when I finally got in the game in the eighth inning I didn't feel anything. When I went out to the mound it was all over."

Monday's nightcap was all Tommy John and Carlos May. John, working with only two days' rest, hurled a six-hitter and May drove in all the runs with a fourth-inning homer and tie-breaking two-run single in the fifth.

John has won six of his last eight decisions, permitting only 43 hits and five earned runs in 66 innings.

Elsewhere in the American League, Sudden Sam McDowell, slapped with a $1,000 fine Sunday by Manager Alvin Dark for "rowdyism" on the team bus, vented some of his frustrations on California's reviving Angels, slapping them down with a seven-hit, 3-1 triumph.

The team bus incident reportedly involved McDowell's use of abrasive language on a ride from Los Angeles International Airport to Anaheim and a Cleveland official said the pitcher also committed "other indiscreet acts", including swearing loudly at Dark.

The hurler and manager clashed recently when McDowell, selected as a pitcher for the All-Star game, was scratched by Dark because of a sore shoulder.

Baltimore topped Oakland 4-2 in an afternoon game, as Pat Dobson boosted his record to 12-4 with his ninth successive victory He scattered seven hits, including Rick Monday's two-run homer for the A's Paul Blair and Dave Johnson hit solo homers for the Orioles.

Mickey Lolich gained his 15th victory with an eight-hitter and led the Tigers as well in a 5-2 win over Kansas City. Lolich ripped a double and two singles, driving in a pair of runs.

Dick Billings' two-run homer capped a four-run Washington rally enroute to a 5-2 win over Minnesota. Harmon Killebrew's sixth inning single accounted for Minnesota tallies.

Ray Sadecki—The Stopper

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "Just don't forget how you did it," right-hander Jim McAndrew implored after Ray Sadecki pitched the New York Mets out of a three-game spin with a 5-2 victory Monday night.

The 30-year-old Sadecki, called on to start because of a Saturday night injury suffered by Gary Gentry, responded with a three-hitter and went the distance against the St. Louis Cardinals.

It was a lifesaver because the Mets were without Gentry and McAndrew, who collided in the outfield before a Saturday night game in Houston.

Gentry, Manager Gil Hodges said, was due to start this afternoon during a game in Chicago despite 14 stitches taken to close facial lacerations suffered in the collision.

"If Sadecki had gotten into trouble tonight, I'd have had to come in with Charlie Williams," Hodges added. "We're down to seven pitchers, and with Gentry that'll make eight."

"But Sadecki is that kind of pitcher," Hodges said. "That's why he's so valuable."

Blending a good fast ball with control, Sadecki was nicked only for three singles and walked none while striking out six in running his record to 4-2.

The start was his first since July 5 but the 5-foot-11 left-hander, asked how he stayed sharp, responded, "That's supposed to be my job. If anybody's supposed to have it, it's me.

'To have the lead is great," added Saecki, who was staked to a 5-0 command via a six-hit Mets' second. "You've got to stay in shape," he said, "and you do your share of throwing in between."

Sadecki, whose previous start was an 8-0 victory over the Montreal Expos, also contributed his bat to the Mets' biggest inning since May 11.

He followed singles by Bob Aspromonte and Teddy Martinez and a walk to Jerry Grote with a run-producing hit making it 2-0.

The assault continued off Steve Carlton 13-6 with run-producing singles by Bud Harrelson, Tommie Agee and Cleon Jones before Donn Clendenon bounced into an inning-ending double play.

The only noise by the Cardinals against Sadecki, who retired the last 18 batters, was avoidable in the fourth.

Lou Brock struck out leading off but reached first when the ball sailed through catcher Grote's mitt. Matty Alou and Ted Simmons followed with singles and Jim Beauchamp drove in the other run with a sacrifice fly.

"I had pretty good control and pretty good fast ball," Sadecki summarized. "You have your better days when you have both."

Elsewhere in the National League, the Los Angeles Dodgers snapped the Pittsburgh Pirates' 11-game winning streak, 10-4; Houston Astros tripped the Philadelphia Phillies, 3-2, in 11 innings; the San Francisco Giants bounced the Atlanta Braves, 11-8; San Diego Padres stopped the Cincinnati Reds, 4-3, and Montreal beat second place Chicago, 5-3, and kept the Pirates' spread at 11½ games.

The Dodgers snapped out of their recent hitting lethargy with 15 hits. They had scored only four runs in their last four games.

Some of the Dodgers took extra batting practice before the game. Included among them was Maury Wills who drove in three runs with a double and single.

Ron Woods' first National League home run and Ron Fairly's two-run single led Montreal over Chicago. Woods delivered a two-run shot in the first after a walk to Ron Hunt, his first homer since being acquired from the New York Yankees for Ron Swoboda last month.

Fairly's hit in the sixth inning sent Cubs ace Ken Holtzman to the showers.

Cesar Cedeno slugged a bases-loaded single in the last of the 11th inning to send the Houston fans home happy.

Roger Metzger opened the rally with a single off Philadelphia reliever Billy Wilson, who took over for starter Rick Wise. Wilson then tossed away Joe Morgan's attempted sacrifice bunt, putting runners on second and third. After Jim Wynn was intentionally walked, Cedeno smacked his game-winner.

San Francisco wasted a six-run lead before Bobby Bonds doubled and scored the tie-breaking run on a throwing error as the Giants outlasted the Braves in a 3½-hour contest. Bonds scored from second with two down when Darrell Evans fielded Dick Dietz' bouncer and threw past third. Dietz later scored when Hal Lanier singled and the Giants added their final tally on Willie Mays' run-scoring single in the ninth.

Ed Spiezio's two-out, two-run homer in the eighth inning powered San Diego over Cincinnati and snapped the Padres' losing streak at four games.

Lee's Canadian Win Boost for Tourney

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Notes from the pro golf tournament trail:

Lee Trevino's victory in the Canadian Open, sandwiched between his U.S. and British Open triumphs, may be the best thing that has happened to that north-of-the-border event in years.

It's certain that his sweep of the three national titles in four weeks has provided the Canadian—now mentioned in the same breath with the U.S. and British—with more publicity than it has had in at least a decade.

And it may have gone a long way toward elevating that event from just another stop on the schedule to—at least—a slightly higher category. It's no secret Canadian officials aspire to bigger and better things, and the unusually large attendance this year, despite the relatively remote location of the Richelieu Valley course, could prompt them to make every effort to increase the prestige of their national championship.

Three brother combinations have signed up to compete as entries in the National Team championship at Laurel Valley, Pa., week after next. They are Dave and Mike Hill, Tom and Mickey Shaw, Dick and John Lotz.

Lee Trevino has veteran Howie Johnson as a partner. Arnold Palmer, competing on his home course, and Jack Nicklaus are the defending champions.

There was some talk that Gary Player of South Africa and Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina may play as a team, but they couldn't work out their schedules.

Because of unfavorable starting times in the first two rounds at Cleveland, avid baseball fan Ken Still couldn't get away to accept Leo Durocher's offer to manage the Chicago Cubs in an exhibition game.

Lee Trevino, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Homero Blancas and Cesar Sanudo went out in a foursome in a recent practice round. And was any English spoken?

"Sure," said Sanudo. "By the caddies."

OTB Eyes Tennis World; Samuels Raps Sports Brass

NEW YORK (UPI)—Howard Samuels, head of the city's Off-Track Betting Corp. (OTB), believes sports officials who oppose betting on all sports "are living in an Alice-in-Wonderland world" and, as a first step, he wants to take bets on tennis matches.

Samuels, appearing at a news conference with tennis stars Billy Talbert and Gene Scott, said Monday "the commissioners of the various sports who oppose all sports wagering are living in an Alice-in-Wonderland world. Though they do not acknowledge it, sports betting is the biggest business in the city —including numbers."

Talbert and Scott both endorsed Samuels' proposal to take bets on tennis. They said a wagering system like the one used at Wimbledon, England, could be implemented by OTB.

Any extension of OTB betting, which takes only wagers on horse racing at the present time, would require the approval of two sessions of the legislature and then would go to the voters for approval as a constitutional amendment.

Braves Reverse Winning Habits

The Richmond Braves, who once had a reputation for winning at home and losing on the road, suddenly have reversed the process — and it's hurting their bid for a spot in the International League's first division.

Richmond returned home Monday night after winning six of seven games on the road and promptly dropped a 9-7 decision to the Louisville Colonels that left the Braves 2½ games back of the Charleston Charlies, whose home game with Toledo was postponed because of wet grounds.

At the same time, the front-running Syracuse Chiefs knocked off the Winnipeg Whips 9-5 and built their league lead to two games over the Tidewater Tides, who also ran into wet grounds in a scheduled game against the Rochester Red Wings.

Jose Calero sent home two runs with a double and John Mason homered for two more as Louisville broke a scoreless tie at Richmond with a six-run fifth inning on seven hits.

Relief pitcher Jose Santiago choked off a Richmond rally that produced two runs in the sixth, homered in the seventh, then had to be bailed out in the ninth by Bob Snyder, who got the final two outs after the Braves had scored twice and had the tying run at the plate.

George Pena drove in five runs and Rick Bladt the other four as Syracuse won its ninth game in its last 10 starts. Pena had a three-run homer, his 17th, and two singles, while Bladt had a double and two singles.

PITCHING — Ray Sadecki, Mets, fired a three-hitter and retired the final 18 batters in a row to beat St. Louis 5-2.

HITTING — Bill Melton, White Sox, collected four hits and drove in three runs—including two with a tie-breaking single in the 10th inning—in an 8-3 victory, the first half of a twinight doubleheader sweep against the New York Yankees.

In First Round Stunners

Ashe, Laver Kayoed

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Giant-killers Nikki Pilic and Bill Bowrey savored their finest hours in professional tennis today after upsetting top-seeded Arthur Ashe and second-seeded Rod Laver, respectively, Monday in the $50,000 First National Tennis Classic.

It was the first time during the current world championship tennis tour that Ashe and Laver had been eliminated in the first round.

Prior to Monday, Pilic never had beaten Ashe, nor had Bowrey ever defeated Laver.

Pilic and Ashe waged a tense struggle that went to match point 11 times before the Yugoslav lefthander scored the clincher on a drop shot that Ashe hit out of bounds. It gave Pilic a 4-6, 7-6, 7-6 victory.

"It was like Russian roulette out there," said Pilic in his Balkan-accented English. "I have him seven match points and he has me four. It was the first time I beat Ashe, but I come close in our other three matches. And on this clay surface, I don't give him any more chances than me."

Bowrey, a handsome 27-year-old Australian, has been overshadowed by his fellow coutrymen Laver, Ken Rosewall, John Newcombe and Tony Roche. He never has advanced beyond the second round on the pro tour this year.

But Monday he took a back seat to no one.

Stroking his backhand for consistent winners, Bowrey spotted Laver a one-set lead, then stormed back to win the second set and reel off a 5-0 lead in the third set before Laver rallied to take four straight games. Bowrey held his service in the 10th game to win the match, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

"This was my biggest win since I turned pro," Bowrey said.

"My sister could have beat me the way I played," grumbled the disgusted Laver, who has been in a slump in recent tourneys, including Wimbledon.

With Ashe and Laver out of contention, Cliff Drysdale of South Africa moved into the favorite's role as the third-seeded player.

Ken Rosewall, winner of the Washington Star International on Sunday, is seeded sixth in the tourney which runs through next Sunday.

In other first-round matches, Andres Gimeno of Spain defeated Owen Davidson of Australia, 6-2, 6-3; Ismail El Shafei of the United Arab Republic beat Roy Barth of San Diego, Calif., 6-7, 6-4, 6-4; Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., conquered Allan Stone of Australia, 6-4, 7-6, and Fred Stolle of Australia ousted tour rookie Tom Leonard, 6-4, 6-4.

Good News for Unitas, Not for Starr

NEW YORK (AP) — Bart Starr and John Unitas, two of the National Football League's all-time great quarterbacks, made the news out of pro football's training camps Monday. For Unitas the news was good, but for Starr, not so good.

Unitas, who underwent surgery after rupturing his right Achilles tendon playing paddle ball April 7, threw hard passes for 15 minutes at the Baltimore Colts training camp in Westminster, Md.

It was the first time Unitas, 38, had set up and thrown to receivers since camp opened July 11. Unitas is under doctor's orders not to do any running until August.

But while Unitas was able to throw without pain, Starr was not. The Green Bay Packer veteran, who came up with a sore arm late last season, felt pain in his throwing arm and will have to stop passing for the foreseeable future, according to Coach Dan Devine.

Devine said he was not ready to push the panic button and start a trade for a quarterback. The Packers have veteran Zeke Bratkowski, attempting a comeback at 39 after two years as an assistant coach; rookie Scott Hunter, a number six draft pick from Alabama; and second year man Frank Patrick, a converted tight end. "They probably are a lot better than anyone who is available," Devine said.

The other major news revolved around Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick, Ron Johnson and Larry Brown, four of the leading young running backs in pro football seeking more money, and have yet to sign 1971 contracts.

Csonka and Kiick combined to gain 1,532 yards rushing last season, and now they have combined to hold out for more money. Each reportedly earned less than $35,000 last year and each is said to be seeking upwards of $55,000.

Johnson, who became the first New York Giant runner to gain over 1,000 yards in one season when he totalled 1,027 last year, is said to be asking for $100,000, a $50,000 raise.

Brown, the NFL's leading ground gainer in 1970, is reportedly asking upwards of $100,000 from the Washington Redskins.

Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Hanratty suffered a minor ankle sprain in a Steeler workout. St. Louis Cardinal reserve quarterback Dave Olivo will have to undergo surgery to repair knee ligaments torn in a car accident last week.

In player transactions, Atlanta signed veteran placekicker Booth Lusteg. Green Bay released seven players including quarterback Rick Norton, the Houston Oilers cut veteran defensive tackle Willie Parker, former NFL rookie of the year Paul Flatley announced his retirement, and the New England Patriots released 13, including former Notre Dame linebacker Bob Olsen and Solomon Gomez, an All-American soccer player from Harvard who was trying out as a place-kicker.

Avery Accepting Reality

MOSCOW (UPI) — Even Avery Brundage has to occasionally bow to the realities of life in the 20th century.

The crusty head of the International Olympic Committee, who was born in the 19th century and has a rigid view of "amateurism" from that century, had to back down Monday and admit 10 previously banned skiers to the 1972 Winter Olympics.

Brundage tried to ban the 10 skiers for participating at a summer camp at Mammoth Mountain, Calif., last year where they received daily allowances of $50 in violation of International Olympic Committee "amateur" rules.

But the International Ski Federation (FIS), particularly the top two nations of Austria and France, warned it would boycott the Winter Games if the IOC insisted on its ban.

Since there would be little point in holding the Winter Olympics without the showcase Alpine skiing events, Brundage and the IOC decided it would be best to avoid a showdown with the FIS on the issue.

In a letter to the FIS, Brundage said the "validity of our criticism was fully justified" because the summer camps "are considered by you to be improper and will be prevented in (the) future."

Brundage added, "You also informed us that the skiers had the permission from their national federations and therefore were participating in good faith and that no racing or coaching occurred. In view of your explanation and the guarantee for the future, the executive board has decided to waive any penalty for these violations of Olympic rules."

Brundage's statement was a clear victory for the FIS and means the IOC recognizes that the individual federations have autonomy over their competitors.

Last December, three IOC vice presidents, Lord Killanin of Ireland, Count Jean de Baumont of France and Jonkheer Van Karnebeek of The Netherlands held discussions in London, Paris and Lausanne with the presidents of the international federations affiliated with the IOC to discuss the question of eligibility.

The 10 skiers who were reinstated for the Olympics again are Malcolm Milne of Australia, Franz Volger of Germany, George Mauduit, Jean-Luc Pinel and Jean-Npel Augert of France, Jean Daniel Daetwylei and Dumeng Giovanoli of Switzerland, Peter Duncan and Rod Hebron of Canada and Jon Terje Overland of Norway.

Germans Blitz Kickers; Visitors Outclass Locals

MORGAN HILL

"It was like the Pittsburgh Pirates playing a Class D minor league team." That was Henry Ingber's shock reaction to Werder-Bremen of West Germany's unbelievable 10-2 rout of the Kingston Sport Club Kickers in an international soccer contest at Oehler's Soccer Stadium over the weekend.

Ingber, who is the club's publicity director and played right fullback against the powerful German squad, reported other woes for the Kickers, who also dropped a 7-5 decision to New York Hota of the German-American Soccer Football Association.

The 10-goal harvest by Werder-Bremen is one of the highest—if not the highest—ever registered against the Kickers at Oehler's. The combined 17-goal count for two successive contests is also a new high in offense against the Kickers. For the record, however, the Kickers were not at full strength for either game.

An 11-yard penalty kick by veteran George Vizvary and Spiro Neofatisto's boot from the 16-yard line accounted for the two Kicker goals. Klaus Matischak, former German National team star, and Jurgen Ribbe shared scoring honors with four goals apiece for Werder-Bremen.

Kingston led Hota 4-3 at halftime, but were outscored 4-1 after the intermission. Rudy Weithofer led Hota with three goals. Bernie Schaeffer was outstanding for the Kickers with two goals and an assist.

Market Gets Just Enough

KINGSTON

Gov. Clinton Market didn't get many hits Sunday in its National Division B City Slow Pitch game with the Born Losers but it got enough. The Market scored twice in the bottom of the sixth to edge the opposition, 3-2.

In other action, the Jets tripped Uhl Construction, 8-6; Anchorage I knocked off The Alpine, 14-4; and Bud's Subs beat Tony's Pizzeria by forfeit.

Clinton Market had just five hits, none of which were for extra bases. The Born Losers cracked out nine, three by Gary Chambers. Steve Bruno slugged a double.

The Jets put together two four-run innings to beat Uhl Construction. Tom McGowan, Jim Garrison, John Cook, and Bud Bunt hit doubles for the winners. Bob Clausi powered a two-bagger for Uhl.

Anchorage used a six-run first to spearhead its rout of The Alpine. Ken Wisner had three hits including a homer and Ron Reynolds also cracked three hits. Ron Theiss, Don Konowski, and George Barnes slammed homers for Anchorage as well. Don Wells hit a bases loaded homer for Alpine.

Two Saugerties Routs

SAUGERTIES

The Youth Center and Michael's Barber Shop leaned towards the merciful side this week in the Saugerties Softball League.

Both teams piled up enough runs to put an early end to their opponents misery and score victories via the ten-run rule route.

The Youth Center creamed A. J. Scarselli's, 12-2, while Michael's crushed State Wide Carpeting, 17-0.

It was the third consecutive win for Youth Center and moved the victors right into the thick of the White Division Pennant race. The unusual standings reveal that Ted's Esso and Michael's are even at 6-3 in first place. Jug's F. Troop, Scarselli's, and Youth Center are next at 5-4. Trailing the pack, the only team with a losing record, is State-Wide at 0-9.

Ed Pelham hurled a three-hitter in the six-inning game for Youth Center. Dit Myer led the attack with three hits. Pelham had two and Jamie Todaro cracked a home run.

An eight-run fifth inning ended Michael's rout of hapless State-Wide. The Barbers pounded out 13 hits including two apiece by John Bruck, Bob Campbell, George Fisher, Craig Martin, and Joe Farrell. The latter knocked in five runs and hit a grand slam homer.

Tom Rizzi was the winning pitcher, striking out six and lowering his earned run average to 2.02.

Kutsher's Sets Annual Stokes Benefit Game

MONTICELLO

The best of the National Basketball Association will be in action when the Maurice Stokes Memorial benefit basketball game is played at Kutsher's Country Club here August 17.

Proceeds to the annual event go to a trust fund established last year to aid NBA players who might require financial assistance as a result of illness or physical disability. In addition, part of the proceeds will be earmarked to the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass. to establish a memorial for Stokes, who died last year following a courageous 12-year struggle against brain damage.

During the lifetime of the former NBA star, more than $100,000 was raised from the game to help defray medical expenses involved in Stokes' incapacitation.

"I'm pleased that the annual game has continued for such a useful and worthwhile purpose," Jack Twyman, Stokes' former teammate and legal guardian and the President of the Stokes Memorial Foundation, said. "The fund is already benefitting a former NBA star who has battled long and hard to overcome cancer."

Red Hook Takes 1st Swim Meet

RED HOOK

Red Hook's swimming team took 20 out of 30 events and beat Hurley, 198-119, here Saturday in the first meet of the Summer for both squads.

Seven Red Hook pool records were cracked, five by the home team.

Ann Hoch and Mike Mosher each set two new marks. Ann established a norm of 15.2 seconds in the 25 yard freestyle for 10 and under and 20.0 in the 25 yard backstroke for 10 and under. Mike covered the same distances in 15.4 and 20.0.

Other records were posted by John Landers of Hurley, who took the 50 yard backstroke in 30.9; Robert Begley, a 20.4 timing in the 25 yard breaststroke; and Barbara Skiba of Red Hook, 21.6 in the 25 yard backstroke.

Some 200 fans saw the Red Hook boys and girls evenly split the 20 first place finishes. Hurley girls took six events and the boys nabbed four.

Red Hook meets New Paltz on Wednesday at 6 p.m. at home.

Scale Model Made Public

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — A scale model of a $160 million downtown redevelopment project has been made public by the city of Niagara Falls.

The model, showing an architect's concept of the city's Rainbow Center urban renewal project, was shown Monday to federal, state and city officials.

"Niagara Falls will have one of the most breathtaking natural wonders of the world next to one of the most attractive downtowns in the United States," said Daniel W. Collins, urban renewal director.

Collins said the design had "achieved the goal of tying the magnificant American Falls to the shops, hotels, convention center, and tourist attractions by an indoor-outdoor pedestrian mall four blocks long."

"No Rue De Vallee;" Say Singer's Neighbors

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Rudy Vallee, irked by the fuss raised over the proposal he backed to change his street's name to "Rue De Vallee," said Monday he didn't want to be reappointed to the City Traffic Commission.

The proposal to rename the street after the singing idol of the 1920s brought protests from his neighbors. A City Council Commission forwarded Vallee's reappointment without the usual recommendation to approve it.

"I was made to appear an arrogant and frivolous person," Vallee said.

Vallee originally was appointed to the commission by Mayor Sam Yorty, his close friend.

"Mr. Vallee just felt he didn't want to take any more abuse and preferred to have his name withdrawn," Yorty said Monday.

Vallee said the idea of renaming Pyramid Place after himself originally was proposed to help the mayor. Another street, Pyramid Drive, is nearby and the mayor sometimes got lost looking for Vallee's home, the singer said.

Vallee said he was humiliated and subjected to ridicule when the proposal to rename the street got mixed up with his pending reappointment as a city traffic commissioner. A neighbor said Vallee was abusing his power as a commissioner.

It was also revealed that the curb before Vallee's home is painted red and bears the words "No Parking—RVPD." Vallee said the initials stood for "Rudy Vallee Police Department" and it was all a joke.

He would still like to see the street renamed however, he said, to avoid confusion.

"It is not important to me what name is chosen," he said. "It should be up to the residents of the street. I'm going to suggest the name of my favorite champagne—Eden Roc."

Women Picket Train Depot

HORNELL, N.Y. (AP) — About 20 wives and mothers of railroad crewmen picketed the Erie Lackawanna depot in this Southern Tier city Monday.

The women said they were protesting the effects of new work rules imposed last week after two other railroads were struck.

"Our men have had no contract for two years," said Mrs. Frank Bottomley. "The railroad is trying to force a strike and have the government take over."

Mrs. Bottomley said the work-rule changes caused workers to lose up to 50 per cent of their pay and reduced sick leave and vacation time. She said the men only receive $1.50 for expenses for days when their jobs require them to be out of town.

"It may cost the men more to stay out of town than they're making," she said. "We don't like the way they's being treated."

One woman, Mrs. Joseph Robbins, sat inside the depot and refused to leave. A railroad spokesman said she could remain there until she chose to go.

The spokesman denied that the railroad was trying to force a strike. He said he was unaware of the conditions of which the women were complaining.

Driver Files Innocence Plea

KINGSTON

After pleas of innocence were entered before City Judge Hubert A. Richter on Monday to 10 traffic violations, William L. Hokey, 24, of 237 Hasbrouck Avenue, was remanded to the Ulster County jail in lieu of $250 bail and the case was adjourned until Wednesday.

Hokey was apprehended by police following a high-speed chase along several streets in downtown Kingston at 4 a.m. yesterday. The pursuit ended when the car driven by Hokey went out of control and crashed into rose bushes along the driveway of the home of Richard Shults at 60 Highland Avenue.

The motorist was booked for reckless driving, failure to produce a registration, failure to keep to the right, passing a stop sign, leaving the scene of an accident, unlicensed operation, failure to comply with a police order, speeding, unsafe tires and driving without lights.

Five Found Dead, Police Seek Clues

SHEBOYGAN, Wis. (UPI)—Two widows and three young sons of one of the women were found shot to death in their homes less than a block apart in this Lake Michigan shoreside city Monday. Police would say little about the slayings as the investigation continued through the night.

From sketchy details released by police late Monday, it appeared that the deaths of all five persons may have been related, although police refused to speculate.

Police said the bodies of Mrs. Warren Dean and Mrs. R. Rammer and Mrs. Rammer's three sons were found in their beds in the two homes.

Both widows were believed to be in their 50s. The dead boys were aged 10, 13 and 16.

The neighborhood the bodies were found in recently was developed and was made up of new homes, police said.

Sheboygan County District Attorney Lance B. Jones said a rifle, apparently the weapon used in the slayings, was found at the entrance to the Rammer home.

However, police would offer no motives for the killings, which apparently happened Sunday night or Monday morning.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Find out what kin expect, then act with intelligence and efficiency. Seek professional advice on ways to increase income and follow it.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Sit down and talk with that associate who wants your view on new plans. Ask for the information you need from another partner. Get all of your projects working efficiently.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Monetary matters require much attention today, so discuss with experts and others. Put right plans to work. Find best way to improve any real estate you own.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Use best method for handling personal affairs efficiently and reaching an understanding with relatives, friends. Get the support you need for projects you have in mind. Don't argue with anyone.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Prepare for project you have in mind by getting the data you need. Put a plan in action that will please kin immensely. Don't forget to pay bills.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan recreation with good friends, and in your spare time enjoy relaxing hobbies. Handle important obligations early. You can meet charming people at some party to which you are invited. Accept.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Confer with a bigwig on ways you can improve your monetary structure, then follow good advice given. Plan the right gadgets that will make your daily routines more efficient. Derive greater benefits thereby.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have fine ideas but need to get more information before you put them in operation. Have discussions with new contacts you have made and get their views. These could be very helpful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Ideal day to contact experts who will give you good advice on how to handle your responsibilities better in future. Come to an understanding with loved one now. Talk matters over pleasantly and kindly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) An associate is acting erratically; pin him or her down to promises made you and you will be doing this person a favor. An ideal day to use your fine ability getting public work done that you have been putting off.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Show co-workers that you are more than willing to do your fair share of work and come to a fine understanding with them. Once your work is done, try to find some new items for your wardrobe.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are now able to achieve your aims with ease, provided you use your intuitions. Enjoy some form of amusement after your routines are completed. Find the right companions.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those rather difficult youngsters who will not want to do whatever is a duty, but if you teach that it is the only way to get along in life and to progress, you soon have a most ambitious youngster who will sail through studies and have a real goal in mind for life, which means much success. Merchandising could be ideal here, or whatever is connected with home and property.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jim Thorpe, an American Indian, was one of the greatest male athletes in the United States. Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

CAMPAIGN: (Q.) I love this guy. He says he doesn't love me but he likes me OK. He likes many girls and goes with many of them. I want him to love me.

We have never had a date because my parents don't approve of him.

We have been together only two times. Both times it was all day. I think if he knows me better he will love me.

What else can I do to get him to love me? I have a book on him, with pictures of him and clippings from the paper on him—he's a very popular boy. Also horoscopes on him. I've let him see the book. I will put your answer in it. — Lover in Love in Madison, Wis.

(A.) You are foolishly throwing yourself at this boy, and he is taking advantage of your foolishness.

Stop it. Now.

MISUNDERSTOOD: (Q.) I belong to the Civil Air Patrol Club. There is only one girl besides me in it. I joined because I want to go into the Air Force Nursing Program when I am older.

But some of the guys in the club seem to think I joined it and stay in it just because there are guys there. That isn't true.

What can I say to them to stop them from kidding me? —Air Force Girl in New Jersey.

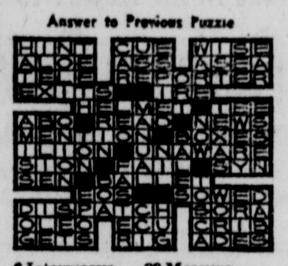

(A.) Don't say a thing. Simply apply yourself to the work of the club and strive for achievement.

If you do this consistently, the boys will see you are serious and will quit making jokes about your membership.

Pierson Writes New Script

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When Frank Pierson was asked to write a pilot script for James Garner's new series, "Nichols," he figured he'd take the money and run.

His script was one of several being considered for Garner's return to television and after the onetime "Maverick" star read it he drove to Pierson's home.

Pierson said, "Jim asked me to produce the show and we rode around in his high-powered car and talked about it. We agreed to do it if it was fun. So many outfits are a morass of fear and tension, and there's no reason for it to be that way."

Pierson, a lanky man with long hair and a beard the color of pewter, last produced "Have Gun Will Travel." In more recent years he has written the scripts for the movies "Cat Ballou" and "Cool Hand Luke" and wrote and directed "The Looking Glass War" in England.

A Pierson innovation is his invitation to the show's writers to visit the set and partcipate more closely in one production. Generally, writers are as welcome around the set as Typhoid Mary. "Writers have been made to sit at home and work in a vacuum," he said. "And if they are locked out they can't possibly know what's going on."

The better the writers understand what the producer is trying to achieve the better the scripts will be, he said. "It's an illusion of many TV producers that you can turn out 24 one-hour shows from one man's brain."

Pierson tried 18 writers for the show and narrowed the number to four. He said, "It's difficult to find a good writer for the show. It's difficult because the big writers grind the stuff out for $4,500 a script. If they don't get it right the first draft they don't have the time to do it over. None of our scripts has gone through fewer than five rewrites."

In the concept devised by Pierson for the NBC show, Garner quits the Army and winds up reluctantly as the sheriff of Nichols, Ariz., a Mexican border town named for his family. He is a rather lackadaisical sheriff, but in his own nonviolent way is effective. In the first 16 shows there is one death. Pierson said, "I think that's great."

Careful Trump Management

			1♥

Opening lead—♦10

North's jump to three hearts is a limit raise, but South has enough to continue to game. In JACBY MODERN, you only pass after a limit raise with a real minimum.

South plays dummy's queen of diamonds at trick one. The king covers and South sees a considerable problem in trump management developing. He may want to ruff two diamonds and a spade in dummy, so the last thing he plans is to play trumps. He lets East hold the first diamond. East leads a trump. South wins in dummy and notes East holds all the missing trumps.

This shouldn't worry South. He leads a spade to his king. West takes the ace. So far, South has found the king of diamonds, ace of spades and king of trumps wrong, but he has no worries, provided he can ruff a spade and two diamonds in dummy.

West leads the nine of diamonds. When East plays the jack, South should be alerted to ruffing a spade before a diamond.

Therefore, he cashes the queen of spades, ruffs the eight of spades, cashes dummy's ace of clubs, ruffs a club, leads a diamond and is careful to ruff with the ace of trumps. Now it is a simple matter to ruff a club and his last diamond with a small trump. East can overruff now with his king, but South's contract is safe.

Thieu Explains His Role In 1963 Overthrow Action

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu says he helped overthrow the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem in 1963 only after being assured Diem would not be harmed and that the new government would get American support.

Diem and his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, head of the Secret Police, both were slain in the Nov. 1-2, 1963 coup.

Thieu told for the first time in detail of his involvement in the overthrow of the Diem regime as part of a news conference Monday to deny charges by Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh that Thieu was slow in capturing Diem's palace during the coup.

Minh and vice president Nguyen Cao Ky are opposing Thieu in the Oct. 3 election. Thieu said he welcomed their candidacies.

Thieu said he was first approached by Minh and other military leaders early in October, 1963 and asked to take part in the coup. Thieu then was a colonel and commander of the South Vietnamese 5th Division guarding the approaches to Saigon. He said he agreed to take part on four conditions:

—That the overthrow of Diem was to strengthen the fight against communism and establish a new regime of neutralists or a combination of South Vietnam's political factions.

—The United States would grant diplomatic recognition and support the new government.

—Leadership would remain in control of the military although civilians would be allowed some role in government.

—Diem would remain a figurehead President.

"I had to be assured the United States would support the new government because American support would guarantee diplomatic recognition for the new regime so the new regime would be capable of continuing the fight against communism," Thieu said.

Referring to Minh's charges, Thieu said "the charge that I was irresponsible when I was a colonel is a cowardly action because Minh was a three-star general at the time. Furthermore, to wait until the coming election to tell this story is also a cowardly action aimed at gaining the sympathy of the Catholic voters."

Thieu said he was given responsibility for occupying the radio station, a military camp near the palace, the palace guard barracks, National Police Headquarters and the Interior Ministry's Communications Center.

"I never had the duty to occupy the Gia Long Palace," he said.

Bombers Hit Enemy Near DMZ

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers dropped 600 tons of explosives on suspected North Vietnamese positions along the demilitarized zone today after enemy gunners broke a lull of more than three weeks with new attacks on South Vietnamese bases just below the DMZ.

All the B52 strikes were within a mile of the buffer zone, and it was the heaviest concentration of raids in nearly two weeks. The North Vietnamese gunners had slammed 52 mortars and rockets—including 240mm rockets—at three bases and one field position, but the South Vietnamese command said the shelling caused no casualties.

The targets included Camp Fuller, the western anchor of the frontier defense line, and the Alpha 1 and Alpha 2 strongholds in the eastern sector of the line.

In another shelling attack in gunners fired 10 mortars into the Van Thanh training center four miles northwest of Hue. Again Saigon headquarters said there were no casualties.

North Vietnamese troops ambushed a U.S. patrol from the 198th Brigade 43 miles southeast of Da Nang, killing one American and wounding four. Enemy losses were not known.

Otherwise the battlefield lull across Vietnam continued for the 24th day.

Associated Press correspondent J. T. Wolkerstorfer reported from Quang Tri that all units of the 1st Brigade, 5th U.S. Mechanized Infantry Division have been pulled out of combat, and the 5,000-man brigade is withdrawing from Vietnam at a faster pace than originally planned. He said the new target date for completion of its redeployment is Aug. 20 instead of Sept. 1.

The brigade is now at the Quang Tri combat base packing equipment, and all responsibility for the defense of Quang Tri Province, South Vietnam's northernmost, has been given to the South Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division.

Magazine Publishes New Papers; Reports Plan for Nuclear Drop

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Review has published what it says are secret government documents on Vietnam which show that the U.S. Defense department had a contingency plan for the "demonstration drop" of a nuclear device in Indochina as early as 1954.

The conservative magazine said the use of nuclear weapons was again proposed by the military in 1962 and that another document, dated Feb. 12, 1965, indicates the proposal "remained alive within the military as well as at least one section of the intelligence communities."

Titled "The Secret Papers They Didn't Publish," July 27 issue of the magazine said the documents were from far more extensive files and had not been among the Pentagon Papers in the New York Times and the Washington Post. However, the National Review did not say whether its documents were part of the Pentagon study of the Vietnam war which Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara initiated.

A statement accompanying the issue said the documents were made available "in protest against what the informant held to be distorted impressions conveyed by the documents published in The New York Times." It added that editor of the National Review, columnist William F. Buckley Jr., "is out of town and is not available for comment."

One document, said to be a memorandum from the Joint Chiefs of Staff to McNamara on Jan. 13, 1962, proposed a number of "sharply escalated measures that have been proposed and studied and for which contingency plans have long existed." They were:

—The demonstration drop of a nuclear device, followed by the use "of nuclear bombs and devices where militarily suitable" if North Vietnam failed to respond.

—The closing of Haiphong and Sihanoukville harbors and the blockade of the North Vietnamese and Cambodian coasts.

—Rapid destruction of all North Vietnamese thermal power installations.

—Destruction of the rail lines linking North Vietnam and China.

—Destruction of the Red River dikes and irrigation systems, thus destroying a primary North Vietnamese food source.

—Neutralization of Communist China's Hainan Island.

As a reference for the proposal to drop a warning nuclear bomb, the document cited a memorandum of Mar. 26, 1954, from Admiral Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson titled "Studies with Respect to Possible U.S. Action Regarding Indochina." The report said it included the recommendation "employing atomic weapons, whenever possible."

Peking Is Enemy, States FBI Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — J. Edgar Hoover has told Congress the FBI expects to step up its efforts to combat Communist Chinese "intelligence-gathering and revolution-inspiring activities" in the United States.

The FBI director said Peking considers the United States "its chief enemy."

Hoover made the statement to a closed Senate hearing three weeks before President Nixon announced plans to go to the People's Republic of China as a step toward normalization of relations.

The director's statement was released Monday as the Senate acted on a bill that includes FBI appropriations. A spokesman said Hoover would have no comment.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee planned to hear testimony today on U.S. relations with China, a session certain to produce criticism of the journey Nixon plans.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., a Foreign Relations member, said Monday night the administration may have some tacit understanding with Peking "on the nettlesome issue of Chinese representation in the United Nations."

"If so, a major immediate hurdle has been negotiated which could have set back the gathering momentum of improved U.S.-People's Republic of China relations," Javits said in a speech in Cooperstown, N.Y.
